BRUNO'S ATTORNEY IS HIGHLY PRAISED

House for Third Time.

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 19.—(UP)—Samuel Leibowitz, New York attorney, who has saved 112 men from the electric chair, withdrew from the Bruno Richard Hauptmann defense tonight, convinced, he said, that Hauptmann is guilty of the murder of the Lindbergh baby.

Leibowitz issued a statement outlining his position. He said three death-house interviews with the German carpenter had left him unshaken in his belief that Hauptmann is guilty, although he does not think Hauptmann was alone in the crime. "I want no further part of it," the lawyer said at a press conference.

C. Lloyd Fisher, now Hauptmann's chief counsel and who helped defend him at the Flemington trial, remained steadfast in his belief that his client is innocent.

To Continue Fight.
Sitting beside Leibowitz at the press conference which followed the New York lawyer's third visit to Hauptmann in "death row" at the state prison here, Fisher said he would continue the fight to save the condemned man from the electric chair.

Only today Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, who presided at the Flemington trial, resented Hauptmann to die the week of March 30.

The press conference was held in one of the rooms of a two-room suite at the Stacy-Ten hotel.

When the reporters were admitted to the room they found Leibowitz sitting near a table on which the rem-

Blackshirts Advance On Northern Front

ROME, Thursday, Feb. 20.—(UP)—A huge blow was dealt to Italian troops, aimed at entrapping two Ethiopian armies in the Tembien sector on the northern front of Ethiopia, it was reported today from Asmara, Eritrean headquarters of the Italian army.

Units of the third and fourth army corps, commanded by Generals Bastico and Badini, respectively, are engaged in the maneuver, reports said.

The Ethiopian armies, which reportedly are falling into the Italian trap, are estimated to number between 30,000 and 40,000 troops. It was reported that they are commanded by Ras Kassa Sebati and the elusive Ras Siyom.

New Spanish Premier

MANUEL AZANA.

SPANISH CABINET FORMED BY AZANA

Provisional Liberty to
More Than 25,000 Political Prisoners Granted.

MADRID, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The veteran Manuel Azana succeeded in forming a left-republican government to-night and orders went out giving provisional liberty to more than 25,000 men and women political prisoners.

The new government succeeds that of Premier Manuel Portela Valladares, which resigned today because of the left victory in Sunday's election. Most of the posts were given to Azana's own followers, for he picked nine left republicans in the cabinet of 13.

Azana announced the following new cabinet tonight:
Premier—Manuel Azana.
Justice—Antonio Lara.
Labor—Enrique Ramos.
Education—Marcelino Domingo.
Public Works—Santiago Casares Quirino.

Agriculture—Mariano Ruiz Funes.
Industry and Commerce—Placido Alvarez Boylla.
Communications and Transport—Manuel Blanco Garzon.

Azana formed the first government of the second Spanish republic after former King Alfonso fled into exile. There was jubilation throughout Spain when news of the order giving provisional liberty to all political prisoners except those sentenced to long terms reached families and friends of men in jail.

This step was expected to halt bloody prison rioting caused by demands for freedom. Without it, prisoners would have been forced to wait until the cortes formally passed an amnesty next month.

Most of those held have been in jail since the revolt of October, 1934. Three prisoners were killed in a riot today at Sabotona, bringing the election death toll to 13.

Azana is not a socialist, but was a leading member of the left coalition, which elected the cortes on a compromise platform. An important plank is rigid enforcement of the present constitution, whose modification, particularly as to religious laws, was sought by rightists.

COMMITTEE CALLS SUSPENDED CHIEF IN RELEASE PROBE

Sturdivant Summoned
for Hearing Tonight; Body Will Delve Into Garage Auto Records.

Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant, under suspension awaiting charges of incompetency, inefficiency and illegal release of liquor cars to Ralph Owens, alleged bootlegger, has been summoned to appear before the police committee again tonight in another probe of liquor car releases, it was announced yesterday.

In addition to Sturdivant, four station lieutenants and 11 assistant or former assistant station lieutenants have been subpoenaed, in the investigation of about 45 other machines. A check of departmental and garage records has been completed and Councilman G. Dan Bridges, chairman of the police committee, called the group into session for 7:30 o'clock tonight to conclude the investigation of police irregularities.

The preparation for tonight's session was made while scores of others were being enmeshed in the police drive against vice and crime. Nearly 1,000 have fallen afoul of the law since Sturdivant was suspended and Lieutenant M. A. Hornsby was named acting chief early last Friday morning.

Acting Mayor Ellis B. Barrett yesterday released 24 stockade prisoners on the advice of doctors and after a conference with records. They all were suffering from severe colds and in some cases they had influenza.

Hornsby spurred members of the committee to action.

Italy, Germany, Austria Near Pact; Ghost of Triple Alliance Revived

Present Plans for Accord Being Seriously Considered;
Hungary Included in New Entente; Differences
May Force It Duce To Enter.

By ANDRUE BERDING.
(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press.)
ROME, Feb. 19.—An excellent authority said tonight the ghost of the old triple alliance seemed to be assuming flesh and blood, an eventual treaty which would place Benito Mussolini and Adolf Hitler side by side in a drastic revision of European alignments.

A possible Italo-German-Austrian agreement, this source said, was or is being discussed in both Florence and Berlin.

Following conversations in Florence between Austrian and Italian diplomats, Ulrich von Hassell, Germany's ambassador to Italy, left by airplane for Berlin.

Von Hassell held a long conference yesterday here with Fulvio Suvich, Italian undersecretary for foreign affairs, who talked today in Florence with Egon Berger-Waldeneck, foreign minister of Austria.

Hungary, which has trade and political agreements with both Austria and Italy, would be included obliquely in a possible new treaty.

Triple Entente Shattered.
(The old triple entente of Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy was shattered during the World War when Italy refused to fight for the central powers and later joined the allies.)

A possible agreement between Rome, Vienna and Berlin, it was learned, contains three main points.

1. Germany and Austria would lower tariffs considerably to each other, almost to the point which would make a customs union.

2. Germany would guarantee Austria's independence—of which Italy hitherto has been the guardian.

3. Italy will admit the free development of Pan-Germanism in Austria so long as it does not destroy Austrian independence.

Although a communique issued following the Florence conversations did not mention Germany, it did say Suvich and Berger-Waldeneck examined the general situation.

Suvich had with him in Florence not only the head of the ministry of foreign affairs department for Danubian countries, but also the head for Germany. This fact was given much importance in diplomatic circles.

The undersecretary planned to return to Rome tonight and was expected to report to Premier Mussolini tomorrow.

ROOSEVELT, AID CONTINUE DEBATES ON NEW TAX PLAN

Advisors Say "Nothing
Specific" Discussed at 2-
Hour Parley; Lively Battle
Looms in Congress.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—New conjecture, mixed with uncertainty, today surrounded the administration's tax program as President Roosevelt and his fiscal advisors once more conferred on the shaping of a plan—concededly a major hurdle remaining in the path of congressional adjournment.

Although the executive had indicated his program might be ready this week, "nothing specific" was discussed at the two-hour session, others declined to expand this statement.

Representative Bland, of Alabama, the majority leader, said after a luncheon with Mr. Roosevelt that he did not expect congress would receive any tax suggestions until next week.

The possibility that the program would be limited was seen in some in Bankhead's statement that "at present, I am sure, he (the President) has no new controversial suggestions to make that might delay adjournment."

Experts in the treasury and agriculture departments already have drafted tentative proposals for levies which would bring in a minimum of $800,000,000—the amount estimated required for all farm needs and cash bonus payment.

But one phase of the complete program.

Long Illness Fatal

BRIG.-GEN. WILLIAM MITCHELL

'BILLY' MITCHELL PASSES IN GOTHAM

Noted Army Aeronautical Leader Was Known as
'Bad Boy of Aviation.'

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Brigadier General William "Billy" Mitchell, 57, died here today in Doctor's hospital here after a long illness of influenza and heart affliction. He had been in the hospital since January 28.

His open conflict with superiors on War Department aviation policy resulted in his court-martial in 1925 and he was suspended from the service for five years. He resigned his commission in 1926 and continued his criticisms of the War Department from the lecture platform.

Dr. Samuel W. Lambert Jr., who attended Mitchell during his illness, said death had come sudden, and unexpectedly. He said the general apparently had been improving during the past week and was believed in no immediate danger.

Dr. Lambert was with him at the time of his death.

General Mitchell was known as the "bad boy of aviation" to higher government forces because of his open criticisms of the War and Navy Departments. His suspension sentence was upheld by President Coolidge, but was modified by allowance of half pay.

But Mitchell, not wishing to be held in such status, resigned his commission in 1926 and continued his criticisms of the War Department from the lecture platform.

Dr. Samuel W. Lambert Jr., who attended Mitchell during his illness, said death had come sudden, and unexpectedly. He said the general apparently had been improving during the past week and was believed in no immediate danger.

RELIEF FROM COLD IS FELT IN NORTH

Wintry Blasts Destroy
Peach Prospects in Five Midwestern States.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Winter softened its record siege of the northern states today but cold created perils continued their harassments.

More moderate temperatures during the day spurred the army of highway and track clearing crews to new assaults on snow drifts, allowed rescue expeditions to enter three South Dakota towns with sorely needed fuel and food, and sent trains and buses back to almost normal schedules.

But fires, escaping gas, and other allies of the cold wave brought additional deaths and hazards. Frozen mains and closures by deep biting frosts of ground vents ordinarily relieving pressure were blamed in some places for the gas menace.

At Ulen, N. D., a new blast of illuminating gas shot a manhole lid 20 feet into the air, endangering a dozen city officials as preparations were being made to permit of partial resumption of activity in the main business district. It was closed after yesterday's first blast which was followed by several fires. The fires were caused by escaping gas and by repairsmen to get at the mains.

Belleville and East St. Louis, Ill., residents continued their precautions against sleeping gas which has claimed four lives in the area.

Columbus, Ohio, counted five firemen dead in a lodge hall blaze; two Ypsilanti, Mich., residents died when their home burned; a Chicagoan was suffocated by an overheated stove; a section laborer was killed by a snow plow in Nebraska; and a car skidding on the municipal bridge at St. Louis caused the death of a motorist. Fumes from a smoldering basement blaze overcame seven persons at Toledo, Ohio.

One of winter's most unusual phenomena was reported from Milwaukee. Observers there said Lake Michigan was nearly frozen across, with a thin layer of ice between the city and Muskegon, Mich.

Off the Atlantic coast, which experienced relief from cold, was felt in north.

WARMER WEATHER EXPECTED TODAY

Warm Air Blast Side-tracks Cold Wave; Rain in Afternoon Possible.

Cloudy skies, warmer weather and possible rain this afternoon are predicted for Atlanta today, as the result of a blast of warm air from the southwest which sidetracked yesterday's bitter cold that was bearing down on Atlanta from the northwest.

Temperatures will start this morning at 32 degrees, according to Chief Forecaster George W. Mindling, and will climb during the day.

This will be 14 degrees better than was yesterday morning, when the mercury started the day at 18 degrees. During the day it climbed to 42 degrees.

The low pressure area that drove up into northwest Georgia from the southwest abated the cold winds that had been sweeping over Atlanta and took the chill off the still air that remained.

The article concerning the death of J. Carroll Payne, Atlanta leader, in yesterday's edition of The Constitution will be preserved in the minutes of the state supreme court in a memorial to Mr. Payne, Logan Beckley announced yesterday. Details for the memorial will be arranged after Mr. Payne's funeral.

It was a fine tribute to Mr. Payne, Mr. Beckley said. "The article will become a part of the history of our state."

The story was written by Lamar Q. Ball.

U. S. Flyer Captures New World Air Mark

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The United States apparently captured another world air record today as Robert E. Bryant completed a flight from his home, Rock Hill, S. C., to Miami that bettered Italy's nonstop, nonrefueling record for planes weighing less than 6,172.28 pounds empty.

Bryant, a theater owner and aviation enthusiast, left Rock Hill at 8:25 a. m. and landed at Miami at 6:01 p. m., flying 670 miles in nine hours 36 seconds.

Cobb Says: Ex-Kaiser Still 'Uncle Wilbur'

By IRVIN S. COBB.
(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The ex-kaiser is getting on toward eighty. It seems only yesterday when I was one of three American correspondents with the invading German forces in 1914.

Imperial host without giving offense to anybody in his army. So we twisted Emperor Wilhelm Hohenzollern into "Uncle Wilbur Henneberry of Chambersburg, Pa." and went about speaking of him as one to whom we were indebted for diverse favors but whose policies and methods frequently were open to criticism.

To the world today he's the woodchopper of Doom; to the despising left hook of world opinion he might still be the all-around heavyweight champion of European royalty. And there might be more in New York banks.

JEFFERSON, Ga., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The trial of Dr. Myron B. Allen, prominent Hoschton physician, who is charged with slaying his wife, was postponed again today because two defense attorneys were ill.

Pemberton Cooley Sr., of Lawrenceville, and Early Stark, of Commerce, both were reportedly sick. The trial was indefinitely delayed.

The trial has been postponed before due to absence of witnesses. Dr. Allen has been held in jail here since the death of his wife last October which he called a "tragic accident."

SCIENCE TO AID SOUTH,
PRESS SPEAKER STATES*Watson Davis, at Athens, Sees Bright Future for Section.

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Science can give the south a new sort of self-containment, Watson Davis, science writer, of Washington, D. C., told Georgia Press Institute members tonight, by the conversion of agricultural products into industrial materials.

In a new mode, he said in his address, the south can live in more self-sufficiency, less troubled by what happens economically across the seas. "Chemistry has demonstrated," he said, "that the south has a great industrial future. Agricultural science has shown that the south is not forever bound to the vicissitudes of one or two staple groups."

Co-operation between farm and factory, he asserted, was one of the most promising of the general developments of applied science. "If corn can be turned into alcohol for motor fuel, soy beans into new synthetic materials, cotton into rayon and even other materials with which we are now familiar, the farm will take on a new significance."

The south also has the opportunity of feeding the nation's printing presses, Davis said, with paper made from pine wood grown in the south. He called this "an embryonic industry that has the possibility of protecting the newspapers of the nation from future shortages or high prices of newsprint from other parts of the world." Davis listed four fields of conquest for the science of the future. These were: conquest of cancer and organic heart disease, and of the common cold; development of energy resources that will free the world of its dependence upon fossil fuels, such as oil and coal; understanding of mental disease and makeup of human personality to the extent that peace and fair dealing may dominate the conduct of individuals, communities and nations, and the discovery of the secret of life. Davis' address was the first delivered at the annual meeting of the Georgia Press Institute, which will be in session here through Saturday. He was sponsored by the Atlanta Journal. An address by Arthur "Bugs" Barr, humorist, will feature the morning session tomorrow, with the speaker to be introduced by Herbert Porter, publisher of Hearst's Atlanta Georgian-American.

Advertising, both from local and national viewpoints, is to be considered in a round-table discussion during the morning, with mechanical and production costs, job printing and typography to feature the afternoon discussion. The Friday program includes an address by Webb Miller, foreign correspondent; discussions of local news and correspondence, and local columns and features, and the annual meeting of the Georgia Collegiate Press Association. Miller's address will be sponsored by The Atlanta Constitution and he will be introduced by Clark Howell Jr., vice president and general manager of The Constitution.

Smith, youthful sheriff, was re-elected, as was Roy H. Duggan, clerk of court. Arthur H. Stephens, present tax collector, was elected tax commissioner, a new office created by the last legislature to take the place of tax collector and tax receiver. Surgeon Amputates Worker's Arm
In Crane Fifty Feet Above Ground

LOWELL, Mass., Feb. 19.—(AP)—A surgeon perched in a crane 50 feet above ground in zero cold amputated the right arm of John McCoy with a mechanic's hacksaw today. The operation freed McCoy, who had been suspended for two hours, after a crane had plunged 20 feet from its track 70 feet high and landed on a steel cross girder.

Conscious throughout the ordeal, McCoy, 47, told the surgeon, Dr. L. Gillmor Long:

"Do a good job and I'll walk down the ladder myself, doc."

Dr. Long gave McCoy whisky and an opiate, but no ether.

With swift, dexterous strokes, he cut away the flesh two inches below the shoulder. Then he called for a hacksaw—normally used to cut iron and steel—to complete the job.

Then the 31-year-old physician directed firemen to lower McCoy to an ambulance. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, where the operation was completed.

"He was conscious all the time," Dr. Long reported, "and, though tears came into his eyes on many occasions, he never complained. Of course I tried to do everything possible to save the arm without resorting to amputation but as the arm was caught in such a way and was so badly mangled by the force of the impact when the loosened cab fell against a big girder, an operation was inevitable."

Tonight, McCoy's condition was termed "serious." Doctors said the danger now is the pneumonia or infection might set in.

A sudden drop in temperature from above freezing to zero caused a shackle bolt to break, permitting the crane to drop from its track, Raymond C. Downing, superintendent of the Lowell Gas & Electric Co., said. McCoy, operating the crane, was pinned against a steel girder.

Firemen raised ladders in an attempt to free McCoy, but had to use an acetylene torch to cut through the twisted steel of the cab in order to reach the imprisoned man.

Then Dr. Long, mounting the ladders, threw off a fur coat, rolled up sleeves in zero cold, and began his task. McCoy is the father of three children.

PRESIDENT IS LAUDED
BY SIBLEY IN MACON*Milledgeville Attorney Outlines Progress Under F. D. R.

MACON, Ga., Feb. 19.—Declaring the question now facing the nation is "restoration with Roosevelt or retraction and dissolution with the old-line republicans," Erwin Sibley, of Milledgeville, law partner of Marion Allen, manager of the Roosevelt campaign in Georgia, addressed the Roosevelt Club at Mercer University here last night.

Mr. Sibley reviewed the condition of the country when President Roosevelt took the helm in 1933 and compared his accomplishments with the situation created under the Hoover regime.

Mr. Sibley said: "In 1933 this nation was in such a deplorable condition on account of the do-nothing regime of President Hoover with foreclosures facing farmers and merchants facing bankruptcy; with 13,000,000 people unemployed and more than 5,000 banks having closed, the problem before the American people was Roosevelt or revolution and the great mass of the American people selected the Roosevelt route."

"The question now before the American public in 1936 is restoration with Roosevelt or retraction and dissolution with the old-line republicans."

"The problem of rebalancing of our entire American life was facing President Roosevelt in 1933. The balancing of the national budget was only one phase of the problem. Mr. Roosevelt attacked the problem from the bottom and went direct to the great mass of American people constituting in a large measure the agricultural class and the small merchants. At the same time his efforts were without prejudice or bias. While directing aid to the forgotten man, to balance the family budget, millions of dollars of relief went to the railroad and insurance companies, and other large corporate bodies, to balance their budgets."

Anne Gould Marries.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Feb. 19.—(UP)—One day after being divorced from Frank Meador, bank clerk at San Antonio, Texas, Anne Gould Meador, 22, granddaughter of the late Jay Gould, was married to Herman H. Elsbury, 24, Cody, Wyo., cowboy, here Saturday morning. It was learned tonight.

WILCOX WILL VOTE
ON TALMADGE, F.D.R.*Election Set for Next Wednesday To Be First Held in State.

ROCHELLE, Ga., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The first show of strength between President Roosevelt and Governor Talmadge in Georgia was scheduled today by the Wilcox county democratic executive committee in calling a presidential preferential primary for next Wednesday.

Members of the executive committee at a called meeting fixed the date of the primary to coincide with the regular nomination of county officers, explaining the move was made to save the expense of a possible second primary.

The names of Mr. Roosevelt and Governor Talmadge will be on a separate ballot from the one containing the names of the candidates for county officers, said J. P. Futch, farmer member of the committee.

"It was also decided to put these ballots in a separate box. We didn't consult either the Talmadge or Roosevelt backers, merely acting in the interest of economy and to give our people a chance to express their choice."

The meeting was called by the committee chairman, T. J. Dennard, of Pineview.

VILLA RICA PLANS
ROOSEVELT CLUB

VILLA RICA, Ga., Feb. 19.—A Roosevelt-for-re-election club will be organized here tomorrow night at a mass meeting of Roosevelt supporters to be held in the city hall at 7 o'clock. It is understood that similar clubs are being formed throughout the state.

ROME, Ga., Feb. 19.—Boy Scout Commissioners Asst. Burges, E. R. Moulton, M. S. Cone, Johnny Baxter, M. P. Otts and A. B. Hammon met here to outline plans to make the Scout program more effective. Each commissioner will be in charge of three troops and will compete with the other commissioners in having his troops qualify as "A" troops.

The date named for the annual party given the Scouts of the Rome council by Emmett Cole was February 27 at the Maple street community house.

SWISS BAN ON NAZIS
MAY STIR REPRISALS*Counter-Measures Hinted in German Press, Following Berne Action.

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—(AP)—An authoritative promise of reprisals against Swiss citizens in Germany—blunt re-tort to the Switzerland decree banning Nazi organizations—awaited positive action by reich officials tonight.

The promise was made by the Sozialistische Partei-Korrespondenz, official Nazi press service publication, which termed the "Berne decision as a challenge that indeed cannot remain without proper counter-measures."

The forecast predicted Nazi officials might ban Swiss organizations in Germany in the same manner the Swiss federal council banned Nazi organizations in Switzerland as a development of the slaying of Wilhelm Gustloff, party organizer at Davos, by David Frankfurter, Jewish medical student.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler's personal newspaper, Volkischer Beobachter, called the Swiss action "contrary to simple justice," while other newspapers demanded dissolution of Swiss groups in the reich.

(The ban, voted yesterday at Berne, followed a German protest on Gustloff's death. The council also expelled one student and withdrew the visas of several German visitors.)

SPREAD OF MENINGITIS GUARDED IN VIRGINIA

BIG STONE GAP, Va., Feb. 19.—(UP)—A sudden outbreak of spinal meningitis caused state health authorities to clamp a quarantine on this section tonight. All schools, movies and churches were ordered closed and public gatherings prohibited. Two deaths have occurred.

In Washington, United States public health service officials tonight said that reports from state and city health authorities for the week ending February 13 showed a considerable increase in cases. They said that while the figure of more than 250 cases was larger than the corresponding weeks of 1935 and 1934 it was still well under the epidemic outbreak of three and four years ago.

Virginia reported 15 new cases for the week while New York state had 20, of which 15 were in New York city.

FIREMEN'S VOTE FAILS TO HALT COURT ACTION

Labor Leaders Will Continue Suit To Force Higher Pay.

Despite both platoons of the Atlanta fire department voting against mandamus the city for their basic pay, attorneys for A. Steve Nance and J. A. (Gus) Harper, labor leaders who brought the petition seeking to force the city to pay firemen full salaries yesterday announced the court action will be carried on.

Hearing on the petition of Nance and Harper was postponed yesterday until Friday by Judge E. E. Pomeroy when City Attorney Jack Savage was unable to attend because of another case he is trying in Judge G. H. Howard's court.

Walter C. Hendrix, lawyer, of the firm of Hendrix & Buchanan, declared yesterday that Nance and Harper were representing the taxpayers of the city, who several years ago voted in referendum to pay a basic salary of $175 per month to firemen.

"Whether the firemen want to mandamus the city or not, the law requires the city to pay each fireman a full check and will carry the fight through the courts," Hendrix asserted.

The second platoon of firefighters met yesterday morning and voted against the action taken by the labor leaders. The first section also declared themselves not in favor of the petition Monday.

NEW FARM PROPOSAL IS STARTED IN HOUSE

Organized Bloc Attempting To Bar Increase in Dairy Production.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—An outburst of controversy today met the administration's AAA-substitute farm bill as it started a journey through the house, scheduled by majority leaders to end in passage by Friday night.

An organized bloc of representatives from the dairy states hardly waited for the measure to reach the floor before opening an effort to prevent any increased dairy production under it.

They demanded that lands taken out of wheat, cotton or other production under the subsidies-for-soil-conservation program not be used for growing grasses or forage or for the production of livestock for sale.

Despite this move for amendment, and cries of "regimentation" and "unconstitutional" from other house quarters, leaders expressed confidence that a measure not radically different from that already passed by the senate could be enacted by Friday night and sent to conference with that branch.

Despite scattered opposition cries, it was the alliance of north-eastern and middle western dairy state members under the banner of Representative Boileau, progressive, Wisconsin, and made itself evident even before the rule had been adopted allowing five hours of debate and consideration of germane amendments.

Party lines split slightly at the outset of the discussion. Some minority members, joined by several democrats, dubbed it a "subterfuge" to "get around the supreme court's decision."

From the democratic side, Representative Lammack, of Ohio, walked to the well and declared that "if the original AAA act was unconstitutional, the so-called soil-erosion bill is."

On the other hand, Representative Carlson, of Kansas, a republican, announced his intention to vote for it as "a step in the right direction."

Although technically the house was considering the senate measure, actually it discussed the house bill which Jones will offer as an amendment when debate is finished and amendments taken up some time tomorrow.

FISHER ATTACKS MOVE TO RECOVER LINT TAX

Cotton Head Flays Wallace for Assailing Court Ruling.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Russell T. Fisher, secretary of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, said today "the move to enact legislation for recovery of the refunded processing taxes is the gravest threat that has menace cotton textile employment in years."

"The move is obviously inspired by the Department of Agriculture," Fisher said in a prepared luncheon speech before the Attleboro Rotary Club.

"The refunded processing taxes are being passed back to the customers of the industry," he said.

"They are being passed back under terms of agreements that were in existence months before Secretary Wallace made his wholly inaccurate and ill-considered radio address."

"When Henry A. Wallace, trading on his official position as secretary of agriculture, told the country that the return under supreme court order of the processing taxes in sacrow was a 'legalized steal' he displayed inexcusable and astounding ignorance for a government official."

Fisher did not explain the terms of agreements under which the processing taxes were being passed back to the consumer.

"It is high time that the Department of Agriculture, supposedly most pure of motive, recognize the danger signals and cease sponsoring half-baked legislative ideas," he said.

Rocking the industrial boat is a questionable practice for a cabinet officer. "The cotton textile industry always has stood for the principle of farm relief and for not entirely altruistic reasons. It wishes to see the farmer prosper. The farmer is a heavy buyer of cotton goods."

"The industry expects to carry its share of the farm relief burden, but it objects most strenuously to destructive taxation measures that are accompanied by threats of bankruptcy and widespread unemployment."

FIRST JAP ELECTION IN FOUR YEARS HELD

TOKYO, Feb. 20.—(Thursday)—Japan's voters went to the polls today in the first national election in four years, which some political observers thought might result in the overthrow of the cabinet of Premier Admiral Keisuke Okada.

It was expected that between 12,000,000 and 13,000,000 persons would vote for 446 members of the house of representatives, lower chamber of the imperial parliament and only elected unit in the national government, before the polls close at 6 p. m.

Final results were not expected to be known until late Saturday, as ballots will not be counted in the rural districts until that day.

A total of 876 candidates was in the field, including 338 representatives of the Seiyukai party and 205 candidates of the Minseitō party. Early voting was light.

William Lyon Phelps To Be Guest At Dinner Preceding Talk Tonight

The Ten Club of Atlanta will honor Dr. William Lyon Phelps, internationally known author, critic and educator, at a dinner at the home of Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, preceding his address tonight at the Atlanta Woman's Club.

Dr. Phelps' address is the third in the Town Hall Intimate series and will begin at 8:30 o'clock tonight. His subject will be "Modern Books and Authors."

The Ten Club entertained Dr. Phelps five years ago during a previous visit. The members of the club, one of the oldest in the city, are Judge Marcus Beck, Judge Frank Jenkins, Colonel F. J. Paxon, Dr. Louis D. Newton, Judge Samuel Sibley, Raymond A. Kline, Judge Arthur Powell, R. B. Pegram, J. J. McCall, M. L. Brittain, T. K. Glenn and Dr. Brittain.

Dr. Phelps' lecture here is attracting wide attention because of his thorough knowledge covering the entire field of classic and modern literature and because of the interesting and informal manner in which he presents his subject.

Known as "the most beloved critic in America," Dr. Phelps fills his criticisms and comments on the works of other writers with a spirit of encouragement and helpfulness. He shows a keen interest in the efforts of young and often unknown writers and has guided many authors toward success.

Readers as well as writers have found Dr. Phelps the source of great help. He has guided the tastes of literally thousands of persons and has brought to them a keener understanding of the beauty of poetry and the worth of good novels.

He is as well liked as a man as he is an author and critic. He makes frequent visits to the south to indulge in golf, one of his favorite pastimes. And he never misses a good prize fight if he can help it.

The speaker will be introduced tonight by Dr. J. R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott College. A general discussion will follow the address, with members of the audience invited to participate. The meeting will close with an informal reception presided over by Mrs. Samuel Martin Inman.

Atlantans will have the opportunity of meeting Dr. Phelps personally at the reception.

CURTIS' WILL BEQUESTS REVEALED IN CAPITAL

No Indication Given of Value of Estate of Late
Vice President.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Providing for substantial bequests to his two sisters and dividing the residue of his estate among his three children, the will of former Vice President Charles Curtis was filed in district supreme court today by his brother-in-law, Edward E. Gann.

No indication was given of the value of the estate.

Twenty-five thousand dollars was bequeathed to his sister, Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, who was his official hostess during his vice presidency. He had lived with her since the death of his wife a number of years ago.

A $1,000 bequest was made to his other sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Colvin, of Topeka, Kan. The will, which was executed January 29, 1934, stated that Mrs. Colvin was "now living at my old home place, 1101 Topeka boulevard."

The will contained a provision that should Mrs. Colvin die before him, the $10,000 should be divided between her two sons. If Mrs. Gann had predeceased him $5,000 of her legacy would have gone to her husband and the remaining $25,000 would have reverted to the estate.

Miss Lola M. Williams, whom he described as "my faithful and efficient secretary," was left $2,000.

FOUNDING OF SCHOOL WILL BE CELEBRATED

Atlanta Opportunity School will celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of its founding tomorrow. Officials announced the institution will be open to members of the public, so that they can see the work of the school in its various departments.

The school is designed to furnish instruction in many trades and commercial subjects to adults who are employed, and to younger persons who have been compelled to leave school in order to earn a living. Its vocational training program is supported by public funds. The school is located at Spring and Baker streets.

"This country stands in grave danger," he said. "It is not too late to save the nation now, but if we wait longer the hazard will increase. Some day we will wake up and wonder what has happened, and then it will be too late."

At the meeting tonight the colonel will tell of the "perils" he has observed. Candidates for office have been invited to attend the meeting and speak, it was said. Executive committee of the order is expected to report on its findings as to the qualifications of candidates for various offices.

HOUSE VOTES TO PROBE
ALL PENSION MOVES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The house voted 240 to 4 to investigate the Townsend and other pension movements today after hearing them defended from such charges as "fantastic" and "fraudulent."

Speaker Byrns said he would consult both republican and democratic leaders before appointing the eight-member investigating committee. The stand of members for or against the Townsend plan, he said, would not govern the selections.

Representative Bell, democrat, Missouri, author of the inquiry resolution, probably will be committee chairman with the major political parties as well as a business leader. He given equal representation.

Representatives Burdick, republican, North Dakota; Stefan, republican, Nebraska; Marcantonio, republican, New York; and Moritz, democrat, Pennsylvania, who cast the dissenting votes, indicated their belief the investigation would cost $50,000 to $80,000 and produce no definite results.

13 Drowned.

LONG HOUE, Orkney, Scotland, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The crew of 13 was drowned today when the 257-ton Grimsby steamer Grimsby was wrecked on Little Skerry, a rocky island in the Firth of Pentland.

Take precautions to stay in good health

Do all you can now to build good general resistance

Now that certain facts about common, winter ills have been discovered, you have a better chance to protect yourself against them. It's been found that these conditions reach their peak in mid-winter. Right now is the time of greatest risk.

One explanation is that you start the season with a good physical reserve, but little by little you use it up, as winter conditions become more severe. By March, your general resistance is low. You find it difficult to withstand winter ills.

Knowing this, however, you can take measures to protect yourself.

While you are still well, do all you can to build good general resistance. Start with Adex!

Adex gives you the protective benefits of Vitamin A, sometimes called "a first line of defense." It also provides Vitamin D which you get from sunshine in summer, but need from some special source at this time of year.

Each capsule contains not less than 6,600 units of natural Vitamin A, 1,320 units of Vitamin D.

Take Adex every day. That's how it does the most good. At any good drug store. E. R. Squibb & Sons, manufacturing chemists since 1858.

COLDS ARE NOW REACHING FOR VICTIMS!

Be Wise—Be Careful—Adopt This Simple Precautionary Measure!

Colds are increasing. In some sections influenza is breaking out. Don't be alarmed, but don't be careless.

A cold is much easier avoided than cured! Don't do the sensible thing and adopt the ounce of prevention policy. Stay out of crowds as much as you can. Avoid coughers and sneezers. Dress warmly, keep your feet dry and sleep in a well-ventilated room.

Every morning and night take one or two Groves' Laxative Bromo Quinine tablets. This will keep the bowels open and combat infection.

Millions know Bromo Quinine as an excellent cold treatment, but not enough know it as an equally excellent preventive.

Learn its efficacy and keep a package handy all winter long as your "safety first" measure.

If you have already caught cold there's nothing better you can take than Bromo Quinine. It doesn't merely suppress the cold—it helps drive it out of the system. At the same time, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

For more than forty years, Bromo Quinine has been the largest selling cold tablet in the world. For more than forty years it has been the standby of thousands in treating a cold.

Ask for it by the full name and look for the initials L.B.Q. stamped on every tablet. The cost is small, but the protection is large.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Russell T. Fisher, secretary of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, said today "the move to enact legislation for recovery of the refunded processing taxes is the gravest threat that has menace cotton textile employment in years."

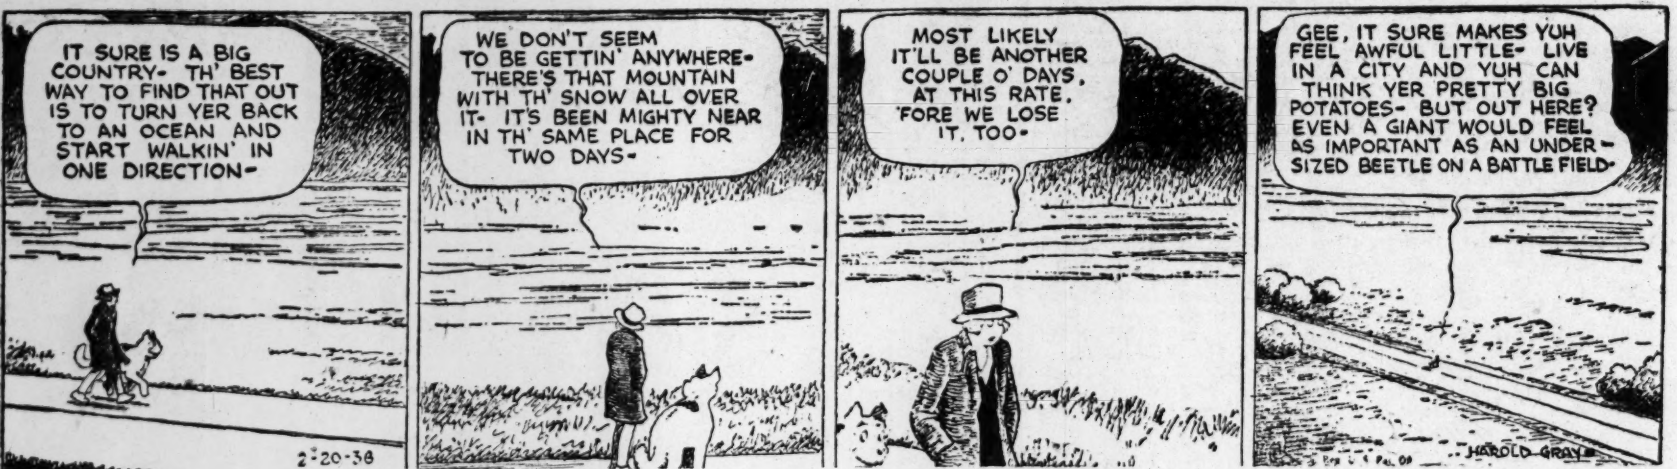

"The move is obviously inspired by the Department of Agriculture," Fisher said in a prepared luncheon speech before the Attleboro Rotary Club.

"The refunded processing taxes are being passed back to the customers of the industry," he said.

-MYSTERY HOUSE-

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

INSTALLMENT XXII.

He went into the house again, and Page looked inquiringly at Barnes. "What do you think the significance of the grave business is?" she asked. "Well, it has none until we can find out who did it. Would this Lynn do it? Would he have any object in speaking over there to Halfmoon Bay to destroy evidence—something of that sort?"

"I don't know what sort of evidence the poor woman's... Page would show. It does seem to me," Page said, with a faint apologetic smile and frown, "that you are making a mystery out of nothing! If I were Mrs. Prendergast, all this investigating and suspecting would make me leave every penny I had to anybody else except my niece!"

"There's more in this than meets the eye! We have only a minute here—now, first, to come back to that diamond," Barnes said hurriedly, with a cautious glance at the house. "I think you ought to give it to them before we start into town. And the sooner we get into town the better for all concerned. We can work from there. Myra Hibbs says that if I don't see the old lady today, she's coming down with the police to force her way in."

But what ridiculous nonsense! Mrs. Prendergast's quiet in her senses, and in better health than she's been for years. She says so herself. As for the diamond, I'm merely holding it—I'm not stealing it. They're to have it on Friday night at the soonest, and not before! And they won't get it then unless Lynn turns up all right."

"You haven't the slightest idea of the danger there may be in all this," Barnes said urgently. "They could arrest you."

"They won't. They're not any too anxious to let anyone know the way things have been going down here! They'll get it if they play fair with me—and with Lynn—and not otherwise," Page said, trembling a little, determined none the less. "Rand's coming back here tomorrow, and he'll telephone me when Lynn gets back; and then I'll tell Rand where he is! Flora and Rand came out on the terrace. Rand was carrying a little suitcase."

"I was going to come back tonight, but now we're so late I think I'll have to stay in town," he said. "Are you going with me or with Mr. Bishop?"

"I hope she'll go with me," Barnes said. "Suppose you do then, Page," Rand agreed. "For I ought to get started." He went down to his car. Flora looked after him, as indeed they all did, but with an absorption so deep that Page had to speak to her more than once to rouse her.

"You'll stay to lunch," Flora said then, in the future, hurried fashion that represented her at her worst. "Oh, we can't. We ought to be going right away. But Flora," Page said, "You will have Rand telephone me the minute Lynn comes back? I feel as if I were throwing him down, somehow."

"I'm horribly afraid he's out on the Rock," Flora said suddenly, walking to the edge of the terrace and looking out toward the sea.

"Out on the Rock? But the boat's in!" Page exclaimed.

"I know. But one of the Chinese boys came to me a few minutes ago and said he saw something white waving out there—in some way he might have got out—"

"In all that storm yesterday?"

"Before that, perhaps. He was down with the boat just before the rain began—"

"I remember he was! But does he swim well enough to make it?" Page asked, turning a little pale. "Or could the boat have drifted in?"

"That's what I'm afraid happened. I'm afraid Chang or Tai Fat tied it up without ever thinking how it got loose. It's certainly tied now."

Page glanced at the man. "Are you any good on a boat?"

"I sure am. I'm out with my brother's boat almost every Sunday," Barnes said.

"Then I think we ought to go right out there, don't you?" the girl said anxiously, urgently. "He's been there 24 hours without any food!"

"Oh, this is terrible!" Flora muttered, as Page followed by Barnes, began to run toward the terrace steps that led down to the shore. "I don't know what to do!"

"Well, we'll get him—he'll be all right," Page called over her shoulder. But she said nothing more. She seemed a terrible urgency in the air. Her heart beat quick with terror; they must act fast now; any moment might be too late!

"Oh, I wish Rand hadn't gone away!" Page thought. "I wish I'd kept him!"

The catboat was at her mooring; Flora handled the ropes adeptly as they all got in; the canvas rattled and filled and the little craft whirled and dipped as it carried them across the heavy rollers that were still coming in from the storm.

"You're a sailor!" Barnes said, at the tiller.

"I've often been out with Rand," Flora said. Page said apologetically that she never could seem to grasp the simplest detail of seamanship, but her thoughts were not on her words; she was thinking in a passion of fear and apprehension of Lynn, wondering if he had been signaling, calling all through the daylight hours of yesterday, had been alone and storm-soaked and hungry all night long.

She was the first out of the boat when it beached on the island's small strip of shingle, and was off like an arrow on the narrow shelf-like path that led up and about the rock to the entrance of Lynn's little cave. The sunshine was so bright on the sea now that she was almost blinded as she reached the narrow slit in the black face of the rock. Page's heart stood still as she entered, stumbling on loose stones and pushing away the brush that guarded the entrance, up at the back of the little place, in the dimness, something was stirring; something gave a long groan that made her whole being sick with a weak with terror.

It was Lynn, writhing on the rough ground like a hurt animal, his fair hair disheveled and wet, his face hidden as he rolled against the stones and the wet sand, his right hand clutching the bloody mass of torn shirt and cut raw flesh that was his left shoulder.

Page cried out his name and was on her knees beside him before she knew what she did; almost before she could sense the fear and pity in her heart she slipped an arm under his neck. His head was heavy against her shoulder.

"Lynn!" she whispered. "Oh, he's ill—he's hurt! He's hurt his shoulder—oh, what have you done to yourself; did you fall? How did you do it, and why didn't you let us know?"

His eyes, sunken into his head, looked into hers dazedly. His thin cheeks were flushed and hot; he answered her whisper with another whisper.

"You didn't come!" he said.

"We didn't know, we didn't know! The boat was in; how could we possibly know! He's hurt, Barnes!" Page exclaimed, as Barnes came stumbling in to the darkness of the little cave. "He must have fallen and smashed his shoulder. We'll have to get him back to the shore and into a hospital, right away! It hurts you, doesn't it, my darling?" she said to him. "But we'll have to move you; we'll have to get you back right away."

Lynn's hands came tight to her hand; he never moved his eyes from hers.

"Maybe I'm dreaming this," Lynn

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Farley, Ph.D.

Some time ago I gave an examination to several hundred high school graduates from about 30 states and one question was "Where are dragons found?" The replies indicated that the majority believed in the existence of dragons and thought they could be found in China, Mexico, Africa or South America. Dragons are only imaginary, and have occupied prominent places in the literature of the past. One of the constellations is called "The Dragon," and the Apocryphal calls the devil "the dragon." The beast is usually pictured breathing fire from its nostrils.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

VISITS IN CALIFORNIA.

IV—The World's Largest Bridge. Thousands of persons are able to see a great sight as they cross San Francisco bay each day. The sight is the building of the world's largest bridge. The length of the "main structure" will be two and a half times as great as that of the Golden Gate bridge.

This new and mighty bridge is called the "San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge." It was started in 1933, and the work has been going on at a merry pace. A great portion is now in place.

The east bay section is composed of cantilevers and truss spans. The longest span of the east bay side measures 1,400 feet.

We are told that the amount of steel used in building the bridge will be about 182,000 tons, along with 15,000 tons of cable wire. Large steamers will be able to pass under the bridge, for three will be clearance space up to 216 feet.

It has been figured that an average of more than 140,000 "passengers" will cross the bridge each day next year. There are to be two levels for the traffic. The upper level will carry for six lanes of automobile traffic, and the lower level will be used by trucks and interurban electric cars.

Thus the problem of quick transportation across the bay will be solved. The rather slow-moving ferry boats will give way to the world's largest bridge.

department to continued and renewed activity in the drive to clean up Atlanta and keep it clean, as the daily farm, prison cells and other detention places were filled to overflowing. He told the men "we'll find some place to keep those arrested; just do your duty."

"Numbers" Men Caught.
Activities of members of the vice squad and other Atlanta police engaged in the crime clean-up campaign resulted in many arrests yesterday. These included the arrest of a young white man, who gave his name as C. Ogle, 24, in a speeding truck which police termed a "bug" wagon. According to Detectives D. Sims and J. Crankshaw, the truck, allegedly used to make rounds of "bug spots" and "bug up" the daily play, was first sighted early yesterday afternoon at Fourth and Peachtree streets. The officers gave chase and pursued the fleeing truck for several blocks, finally halting it at Hemphill avenue, near State street, when one of the detectives fired his service pistol at a rear tire.

"Bug Slips" Found.
Ogle was charged with reckless driving, speeding and lottery. Police said several packages of "bug" slips were in the truck.

They gave their names as J. H. Cantrell, 54; James Wilson, 31, of 620 Hemphill avenue, and S. H. Jenkins, 25, of Austell. The officers arrived at Cantrell's room, he was surrounded by adding machines and other "bug" equipment. As a ruse, the officers entered and then returned a short time later.

Winning Slips Seized.
At that time the three men were in the room "running a ribbon," or adding the day's play totals. The officers seized the "bug" slips representing the work of 115 "bug" writers were in the place, according to police. The slips represented many winners of yesterday's "bug" number, which will not be paid off due to the police raid.

In a raid shortly before noon, Detectives J. S. Tuggle and J. W. Stallings arrested two negroes in a house at 663 Fraser street, said to be a "bug station."

The negroes gave their names as Willie Clark and Lucius Jones. Records and other alleged "bug" paraphernalia were seized.

Leon Everett, negro, rear of 231 Pace's Ferry road, was arrested on about 9 o'clock yesterday morning when police allegedly found a half gallon of liquor in his car, parked on Richmond avenue near Baker street.

About 150 cases involving crime and vice were booked during the day and records' court fines swelled the municipal treasury, while food, medicine and clothing supplies for those detained acted as a drain on resources of the local prison system.

As an aid to the drive, Hornsby yesterday issued instructions that lieutenants must be responsible for the activity and conduct of all men under their supervision. He accompanied that with a statement that lieutenants should assign all men, and that the personnel of the department shall look to the lieutenants for orders.

"Lieutenants Know Men."
"I believe lieutenants are closer in touch with various men than their abilities, their willingness and their effectiveness than superior officers," Hornsby said. "The lieutenants should know, I therefore, believe that they should assign all men, be responsible for the activity and achievements of their men. That is the reason for that order."

In the interim, W. R. Carpenter, representing First Assistant Chief of Police A. Lamar Poole, who is charged also with inefficiency and incompetence and is under suspension, requested Bridges to sever the Sturdivant and Poole trials and asked whether he should summon the 200 odd witnesses for the Poole hearing for Thursday night, February 27.

Both Poole and Sturdivant have been summoned to answer charges at the February 27 meeting, but Poole is asking a severance. Carpenter wished to know whether Poole or Sturdivant will be placed on trial first. Bridges said he will contact other committee members and notify Carpenter.

J. S. Melton, patrolman, under suspension on charges of having a stolen car in his possession, also is slated for trial at the same meeting, and Carpenter, representing him, said he would have about 25 witnesses in that case.

Lieutenants Fred L. Tippen, L. J. Carroll, W. M. Weaver and R. P. Burnett have been summoned to tonight's session, and the following officers who served as assistant station lieutenants also were subpoenaed: George G. Caldwell, M. C. Williams, Claude Carroll, J. H. Crankshaw, Grover C. Fain, J. G. Bowman, L. C. Jones, L. L. Stone, J. J. Avery, Virgil H. Whitley and S. B. Satterfield.

From midnight Tuesday until 11:45 o'clock last night, a total of 140 persons had been arrested in the city on various charges.

The "100th case" was recorded when Albert Rogers, negro, was arrested on a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct, fighting.

Additional charges of disorderly conduct, fighting, were also placed against Charlie Sisk, 26, of a North avenue address, arrested on a charge of intoxication, following an alleged row on the fourth floor "bull pen" of the police station.

J. L. Bassett, 26, also arrested on a charge of intoxication, suffered a cut over the right eye in this alleged brawl, and was treated at Grady hospital. No additional charges were placed against him, however.

differences between the house and the Governor, backed by the senate, on this feature, caused the death of the appropriations bill for 1936 and 1937.

"Grandfather" Clause.
The language of the clause in the bill is somewhat different but apparently has the same effect. The clause in the 1931 act follows: "In the event the revenues for either of the years 1932 and 1933 shall be sufficient to pay all said appropriations in full for said year, the appropriations herein made for such year shall be paid in full, and the remaining appropriations herein made for such year shall in the event of such deficit of revenue for either of said years be reduced, in the ratio that the amount of any such appropriations bears to the deficit for either of said years."

In the clause in the 1933 act follows: "Be it further enacted, that in the event that the revenue receipts of the state treasury available for paying the said appropriations herein made shall be less than the total sum of such appropriations in either of the periods covered by this act, then the said appropriations herein made for that period shall be reduced in the following purposes: for insurance on public property, for the interest on the fixed public debt, for the interest on the currency loan and for the expenses of the judicial and legislative branches; and the fixed sums appropriated for all other purposes for that period shall be reduced pro rata in the amount of the deficiency receipts for the period. The sum so stricken under the provision of this section are hereby declared annulled and the sums remaining after the annulment of the provisions of this section shall be used for the purposes named in the act, in lieu of the amounts therein fixed and set out."

Russell Had Trouble.
The 1933 clause was merely a clarification of the 1931 clause. The clause was first inserted in 1931 in order to keep unpaid appropriations from becoming a debt of the state. In 1932 when Governor Richard B. Russell sought to apply the clause he found that he could not slash the interest payments, or the expenses of the judicial branches. The appropriations bills have always fixed these sums at exactly what is needed.

State Auditor Tom Wisdom announced yesterday that he had practically completed the drafting of the 1936 budget for the Governor, in which he distributed, according to the 1935 appropriations, approximately $7,500,000 set up by the Governor's proclamation. He is to submit the budget to the Governor some time today.

The comptroller and treasurer continued to withhold comment yesterday.

perienced a sharp drop in temperature last night, nearly a dozen ships were reported in distress. They included six barges and a tugboat off the Massachusetts shore.

Coal trains chugged steadily from shipping points to relieve shortages. Southern Wisconsin towns were rationing fuel along with many other communities but Milwaukee was shipping out 375 carsloads daily.

PEACH CROP PROSPECTS DESTROYED BY COLD
KANSAS CITY, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Agricultural experts reported tonight cold weather virtually has destroyed prospects for a peach crop in sections of Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa.

Other fruit apparently has been damaged little or any and field crops have been killed in most sections of the middle and southwest from a heavy blanket of snow.

A. J. Suratt, federal agricultural statistician at Springfield, Ill., said the peach crop was all but wiped out in the upper half of the heavy-producing southern Illinois district.

William J. Martin Jr., extension professor of horticulture at the University of Missouri, said all peaches probably have been killed in northern and central Missouri, and white peaches damaged considerably in southern Missouri.

George Kinkade, secretary of the Kansas Horticultural Society, said peaches were "hard hit" in northern Kansas but were "all right" in central counties. He said cold had helped rather than hurt apples by killing insects and fungus diseases.

Peaches were reported virtually destroyed in Nebraska and Iowa which produce comparatively small crops.

France, Italy Differ.
In diplomatic circles, it was pointed out that it was Italy's colonial differences with France over the Tunisian question that drove her into the triple alliance in 1882 and that perhaps similar colonial differences with France and Great Britain may drive her into another triple alliance now.

German Ambassador Von Hassell was said to have taken the new proposal with him to Berlin and to be discussing it today with officials of his government in Berlin.

An official communication made public in Florence said Italy and Austria had agreed on policies outlined in the Italo-Austrian-Hungarian accords of March, 1934, designed to bring the three countries into closer commercial and political relations and to assure Austria's independence.

The communiqué said: "Signor Suvich came to Florence to visit the Austrian foreign minister, who is passing a few days of rest here. Examine General Situation.

"In a cordial interchange of views on this occasion the two statesmen have examined the general situation, and particularly the relations between Italy, Austria and countries of Danubian Europe.

"They found themselves in agreement on the complete community of views and interests of the two states and have agreed, to that end, to continue developing their policies in the spirit and for the ends of the Italo-Austrian-Hungarian accords of March 17, 1934. Signor Suvich will return to Rome tonight."

AUSTRIAN SPOKESMAN DENIES NEW PACT

VIENNA, Feb. 19.—(AP)—A spokesman for the Austrian foreign office firmly denied tonight reports from Rome that Germany, Austria and Italy are contemplating a pact for close political and economic co-operation.

"Nothing of the sort has been considered," said the spokesman, Dr. Alfred Schmidt, a specialist in Italian relations.

The republican situation was quietest for the most part. Tomorrow is the last day for filing in the New Hampshire primaries. Friends of Colonel Frank Knox, of Illinois, are holding the speed mark in expectation of a challenge to him there.

sense. Six days after he enlisted as a Wisconsin infantry private, May 14, 1898, he was made a second lieutenant and signal officer. In January of the following year he got his first lieutenant's commission and was honorably discharged April 17, 1899.

Further Promotion.
That same day he was commissioned a lieutenant in the regular army and was promoted through all grades to lieutenant colonel on May 15, 1917. August 5, 1917, he was given the temporary rank of colonel and on October 1, 1918, he was given the temporary rank of brigadier general of the air service in charge of all aircraft in the A. E. F.

Returning to America after the armistice Mitchell was named assistant to the chief of the air service July 16, 1920, but after four years in Washington as a "desk aviator" he was assigned to the rank of colonel and was assigned to the eighth corps area at San Antonio, Texas.

It was while stationed in Texas that Mitchell began baiting the War and Navy Departments for their alleged negligence and mismanagement of the air services. This brought about his court-martial.

But the World War was not his only military experience. He was on the staff of General Fitzhugh Lee in Cuba and participated in the Philippine campaign in 1899. likely that they would discourage any spontaneous opposition that might develop.

Aside from Smith, the Tammany state of designs was viewed generally as favorable to Mr. Roosevelt.

The Tammany action yesterday coincided with increased evidence that administration bulwarks are being pathetically shaped. State leaders in Nebraska, Kansas and Florida spoke confidently of "100 per cent" Roosevelt delegations.

Georgia Situation Debated.
Anti-administration states have been projected in Massachusetts and Nebraska. The impasse between the Roosevelt leadership and Governor Talmadge in Georgia has given rise to speculation whether contesting delegations would be selected.

After many conferences, Chairman James A. Farley said in Washington the Roosevelt delegates in California probably would be named tomorrow. Factional differences have held up the selection.

The republican situation was quietest for the most part. Tomorrow is the last day for filing in the New Hampshire primaries. Friends of Colonel Frank Knox, of Illinois, are holding the speed mark in expectation of a challenge to him there.

Snowfall Brings Back Horse-Drawn Hearse

CLEVELAND, Tenn., Feb. 19.—(AP)—A Cleveland undertaker spent a large part of last night polishing brass on harness that had been stored in his loft for more than 12 years.

Today he is to direct a funeral eight miles out in rural Bradley county over roads that are impassable for automobiles. A two-horse hearse, with old-fashioned glass sides, will be used.

D. G. McLain, the undertaker, said he believed it was something over 12 years ago that he last brought out the horse-drawn relic and that occasion was caused by the inability of automobiles to handle the situation.

After resigning his commission and going on lecture tours, he continued in the public eye, being refused permission to attend an American Legion banquet in New York city. Armistice night of 1935, because he was in "technical arrest." The aviators' post of New York took issue with Secretary of War Davis at that time and the public prints took up the issue.

In 1922 Mitchell predicted an air speed of 300 miles in the near future. He had held the speed mark himself at 221.05 m. p. h. made at Mt. Clemens, Mich., October 18, 1922. He has lived to see 300 m. p. h. a reality.

He was decorated with several warships and volunteered to take a plane and sink a warship to prove his contention that our military future lay in the air. The offer was not accepted.

College Training.
Mitchell attended Racine College (Wis.) and was graduated as a bachelor of arts from George Washington University in 1899. He was married to Elizabeth Trumbull Miller, of Groove Point, Mich., October 11, 1902, she being his second wife. They had one daughter, Lucy Trumbull Mitchell.

Dr. Frank Reade, head of the women's college at Valdosta, participated in the preliminary conferences here yesterday but returned to the state last night.

Both the University of Georgia at Athens and the Georgia School of Technology in Atlanta will receive liberal treatment under the new program.

2 YOUNG LOVERS TAKE OWN LIVES

Forbidden Romance Ends in Tragedy for Pair in Maine.

OAKLAND, Me., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The forbidden romance of an Oakland High school girl and a young woolen mill overseer ended here today, a medical examiner said, in what appeared to be a suicide pact.

Clasped in each other's arms, the bodies of Ethel Keniston, 15, missing since February 7, and Freeman Young, 27, formerly of Penacook, N. H., were found in the speed mark in a garage on the farm of Mrs. Aida Goodwin where Young boarded. Rubber hose attached to the exhaust pipe entered a window of the car.

Dr. Napoleon Bisson, the medical examiner, reported the deaths were caused by carbon monoxide poisoning. Mrs. Keniston, Young's mother, said, said the romance started two years ago when Young boarded at the Keniston home. Upon objections by Mrs. Keniston, Young left her home, she said, but meetings of the couple continued.

S. C. Flyer Killed.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Wilkes S. Barnett, 24-year-old Randolph field student from Greenville, S. C., was killed today when his plane crashed on what was to have been one of the last basic training flights. The young cadet was to have graduated to Kelly field here next Friday.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Towns and Allen Carry U. S. Hurdle Burdens in Olympics

BREAK O'DAY!
By Joseph M. ...

Fred Astaire could learn some new dance steps over in Athens, Ga., that classic city.

Almost every Saturday night Mr. Weems Baskin may be seen doing some very intricate steps in front of the telegraph office. He dances mostly up and down.

And about every moment he pokes his noggin into the office and asks:

"How about it?"

You see, Weems Baskin has coached Forrest (Spec) Towns, the Irish hurdler over at Athens, how to leap the high hurdles. It was Mr. Baskin who discovered Spec Towns. He taught him the trade.

And Spec Towns is running races in New York. Last Saturday night he broke the world's record in the 60-yard high hurdles race. The record had stood for seven years.

Whose record was it, did you ask?

Why, a record set by a fellow named Weems Baskin. And Weems Baskin hasn't been in New York with his leaper. It seems he has to stick around and help with the spring football. I hope now they will let Mr. Baskin go to see his leaper leap. Now that his leaper has set a world's record.

But he hasn't been there. And so Mr. Baskin waits around the telegraph office for a wire from his leaper which gives the result. Last week it read:

"Dear Coach, I am sorry but I busted your record."

This set Weems Baskin to dancing about the sidewalk. For a time he disappeared. Mr. Baskin smokes villainous cigars and he puffed this one so forcefully the smoke filled the street and Mr. Baskin's dancing was not to be seen.

It was quite an evening for Weems Baskin.

WEEMS USED TO BE A LEAPER.

Weems Baskin used to be a leaper himself.

He did his topping of the timbers for Auburn. He was a long-legged, thin, sand-haired, innocent-looking boy. But Wilbur Hutzel, his coach, taught him how to throw that right leg up, scissors the other one back, and clear the high hurdles in the 120-yard outdoor event and the 60-yard indoor event.

After he got through college he began running for the New York A. C. and won races for them in all the big games.

Percy Beard followed him at Auburn and is still running. But now it seems Weems Baskin has found himself a lad with legs which can scissor up until the owner of the legs looks like one of these young ladies who do the spring dances for the radio sections of newspapers.

Spec Towns has smashed his coach's world's record and is going on to smash some more of them.

And the University of Georgia is going to have a man in the Olympic games this summer.

Not since Ed Hamm was broadjumping for Georgia Tech has the old state had an Olympic man, or a man who had broken a world's record in track.

IT REQUIRES NERVE.

It requires lots of nerve to run the high hurdles. Spec Towns has it. After the Sugar Bowl track and football games in New Orleans, I rode all the way from New Orleans to Atlanta with Mr. Baskin. The ride requires almost 18 hours and for 14 of those hours Mr. Baskin talked to me of Spec Towns.

Every now and then your correspondent would excuse himself and go get a drink of water. On his return he would take a seat in the lounge car and say, "There is quite a lot of ice outside."

"Reminds me of Towns," Mr. Baskin would say, "Cool as ice, that boy is." And he would be off for two more hours. The high hurdler must pull himself up and over 10 hurdles

All-Atlanta Cage Entrants Slated for First Round Action.

All five Atlanta entrants in the Southern Invitational basketball tournament will be seen in action tonight as 12 of the 14 teams open their bids for titular honors at the A. A. C. beginning at 5 o'clock.

The Parks Chambers crew will open Atlanta's invasion when they meet the Remington aggregation of Charleston at 5 o'clock. The Clothiers have piled up an impressive record.

Oglethorpe's Stormy Petrels, a last-minute entry, face the Woodruff Sports Shop team of Knoxville, at 6:30 o'clock.

At 7:30 o'clock the defending champions, Atlanta's Y. M. C. A. Triangles, play the strong Chevrolet lads of Kingsport, Tenn.

The Warren Company quintet, strengthened by the acquisition of Julian Foster, ex-Vandy ace, goes into action at 8 o'clock, meeting the Spindale, N. C., team. The Spindales boast an undefeated record this year, having bowled over opposition in the North Carolina textile basketball leagues.

Shep Lauer's Jewish Progressive Club basketballers, undefeated in 14 straight games and Atlanta's main hopes for championship honors, go into action at 9 o'clock, playing the West Huntsville, Ala., courtmen.

Stene Browdy, ace Progressive center, and Happy Ginsberg, star forward, are both suffering from mild cases of influenza. It is expected that both Progressive stars will be ready to start against the West Huntsville aggregation.

Two entrants in the tourney drew first-round byes and will not be seen in action until Friday. They are the Panthers of Greenville, S. C., and the Pacific Mills team of Lyman, South Carolina.

The Ken-Rad quintet, favorites to cop the title, arrived in Atlanta Wednesday night and took a brief workout at the Jewish Progressive Club. YSBS'Y.

Kentucky Players Hurt En Route Here.

Coach Alton C. Woodward's Tubemakers from Owensboro, Ky., who play South Pittsburgh, Tenn., tonight at 10 o'clock in the Southern Invitational Basketball tournament at the J. P. C. gym, are bemoaning the fact that only two regulars—Berkley Davis and Maxie Kron—will be able to participate in tonight's fray.

En route here from Kentucky the Radiomen encountered trouble as their three cars crashed while going up the hill in the vicinity of Murfreesboro, Tenn. Two of the cars were left in that city for repairs while the boys came into Atlanta via the train route.

Those who received minor injuries are Harold Nix, sprained ankle and knuckles knocked out of place; J. D. Brooks, injured hip; Ted Walters, gash over eye; Austin Denton, injured leg; Irvin Daniels, bruised shoulders; Jimmy Wood, slight cut on leg.

Despite the fact that they will be unable to play tonight Coach Woodward is optimistic and expects the boys to be ready for action Friday should they succeed in eliminating South Pittsburgh tonight.

PROCTOR LEADS IN TRAP SHOOT

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 19.—(AP)—George Proctor, Allford, Mass., marksman, cracked 197 of 200 targets at 16 yards today to lead Class A trapshooters at the Peckaway Skeet Club tournament.

Proctor was only one pigeon ahead of Joe Hiestand, Hillsboro, Ohio, who broke 196 to take second place.

Charles A. Young, Springfield, Ohio, veteran reputed to be about 80 years old, shot 194 to tie with Herman Peterson, Dillon, Mont.

Shooting fourth with 192, J. B. Joyall, Tallahassee, Fla., Grand American trapshooting champion, finished far behind with 187.

First honors in the Class B shoot were divided between Harry Thomas, New York, and Will Lewis, Estes Park, Colo., who shattered 180 targets out of 200.

Other class winners were: Class C, Walter Sams, Athens, Ga., 194, and Class D, Dick Tubbs, Indianapolis, 182.

Bulldog Plays Tiger in Clemson Today

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 19.—Hard pressed in Southeastern Conference competition, Georgia's basketballers step out of the "Big 13" to battle the Clemson Tigers in a return game in Clemson, S. C., Thursday night.

The University of Georgia's only chance of breaking into the conference tourney rests with the other member teams, if she beats Tech. The fight for the tail-end eighth place will be most hotly contested, it appears. Georgia's road trip performances in the past two games were "flat." Her showing was worst at Atlanta.

Elephants played their best game of the season, Jack Farren and Lee Richards, however, turned in their best routine of the year.

Dempseys Expect Child in Summer

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey and his wife, the former Hannah Williams of the stage, are expecting another child next summer, the former heavyweight champion said today in a message to the Salt Lake Telegram.

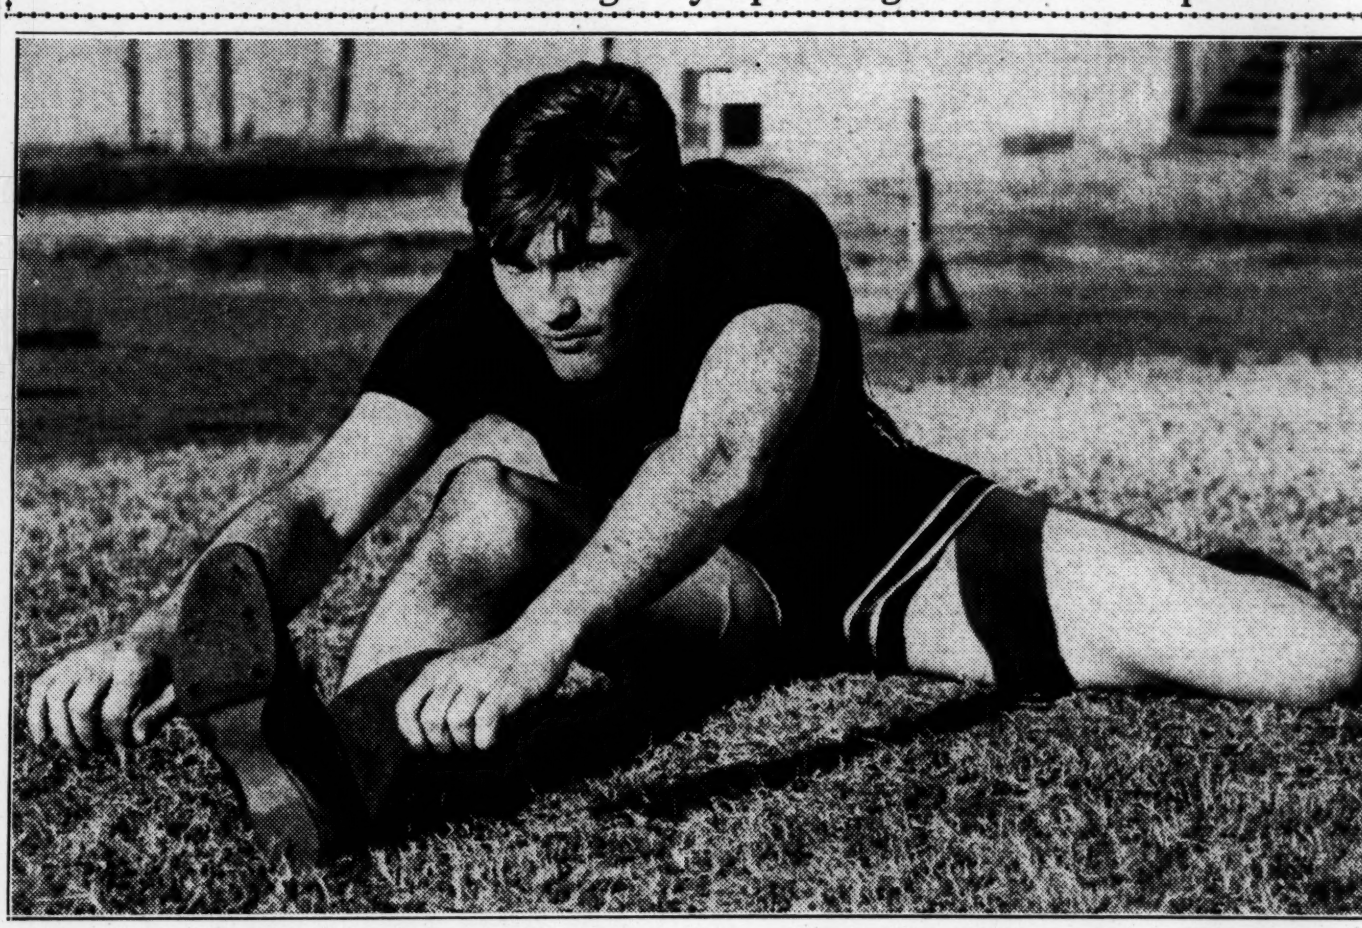

The arrival is looked for the last of July or early in August. Their first child, a girl, Joan Hannah, was born two years old next August 4.

Considered Outstanding Olympic High Hurdle Prospect

Forrest Towns, the University of Georgia's indoor high hurdle world's record holder, is listed as one of the outstanding Olympic prospects for the 120-yard high hurdles. Retirement of Percy Beard has cleared the way for rising young stars. Towns recently broke the 60-yard indoor high hurdle record held by his coach, Weems Baskin. In the picture above Towns is shown indulging in a warm-up practice to limber up his legs. Staff photo by Turner Hiers.

In Time, State Game Farm Will Restock Shot-out Areas of North Georgia.

By Jack Troy.

No one would have any objections to driving 30, 40 or 50 miles away from Atlanta and finding the best hunting in America. In fact, the very idea of such a proposition does not sound very logical at the present time. Those who have tried it know better.

And yet, it is not idle fancy. The State Game and Fish Department already has secured the ground for what is potentially the finest game farm in the nation.

The farm will be only 12 miles from Atlanta, in DeKalb county. There will be 200 acres in all, with a frontage of 500 feet on Briarcliff road about one and a half miles from La Vista road, or the end of the pavement on Briarcliff.

The pressing need at present is for a fence enclosing the property so that deer, turkey and grouse may be liberated.

SEEK CONTRIBUTIONS. The Junior Chamber of Commerce through its conservation committee headed by Alan Barr and Duncan Peck, seeks contributions of hunters, fishermen and all sportsmen.

With such contributions and a fund of its own, the Junior Chamber will furnish a 9-foot fence around the farm. Some contributions already have been received. They may be sent to the Junior Chamber of Commerce conservation committee at the Chamber of Commerce building.

And, in due time, wealthy sportsmen from all sections of the country will be coming to Georgia for the hunting. The possibilities are unlimited. The money that is spent will be of great value to the state.

PLACE OF BEAUTY. Aside from all this, the game farm will be a place of beauty. Sportsmen will have an open invitation to visit the farm at all times and see the work being done.

There they may see the electric incubators used for hatching the quail eggs. And they may see a small fish hatchery. A natural spring flows through a part of the land.

North Georgia has the natural resources, and the game farm will aid in restoring its once great supply of wild life.

Sportsmen have an opportunity to aid in a great undertaking. And contributions, large or small, will make it possible.

Henry Ford has granted permission to the State Department to secure turkeys and eggs from his Georgia preserve on the coast.

A. A. U. Indoor Meet Slated for April 1

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The 1936 national A. A. U. senior indoor swimming and diving championships for both men and women will be held at the Lake Shore Athletic Club, Chicago, April 1 to 4, inclusive, under the sponsorship of the Chicago Daily News.

The meet this year will mark the first time that the women's and men's A. A. U. title meets have been staged as a combined event either indoors or outdoors. Twenty national titles in individual and relay team events will be defended in the April competition with one new event, a 1,200-meter free-style swim for men, added to the program.

Agnes Faculty Wins 'Little Brown Jug'

Faculty members emerged victorious yesterday in the "Little Brown Jug" intercollegiate basketball tournament when they defeated the Atlanta day students in the last minute of play, 14-12. The winners, who wore costumes representing Indians, found their first victory in the history of the tournament too much for them and appropriately lay down on the court at the close of the contest, giving their best war whoops.

The scoring star of the game was Miss Llewellyn Wilburn, head of the physical education department at the college who is well known as an Atlanta golfer. She was responsible for nine of her team's points.

The faculty advanced to the finals by way of a first-round bye and a win over the girls from main dormitory, 22-10. The Atlanta girls defeated Inman dormitory, 20-9, and Rebecca Scott Hall, 24-10. Rebecca beat the Deuter day students in the first round, 26-10.

AMERICANS SEE GREATER HOPES IN LONG RACES

Percy Beard, Slats Hardin May Not Be Available.

By Alan Gould.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—If we concede that the United States has at least a chance this year to sweep the Olympic flat races from 100 to 1,500 meters, with record-smashers available for all the fixtures within this classic foot-racing range, it must be admitted Uncle Sam's lads may be shut out otherwise in the individual track events.

Not that the second eventuality would be as startling as the first. In the events grouped together for discussion here, comprising the hurdles, steeplechase and all distance races up to and including the marathon, the U. S. has achieved only two victories in the last three Olympics.

Morgan Taylor averted a rout by winning the 400-meter hurdles at Paris in 1924. The late George Saling, Iowa timber topper, saved our boys from the embarrassment of a "white-washing" on home grounds by winning the 110-meter high hurdles at Los Angeles in 1932. At Amsterdam in 1928, we failed to win a single obstacle or long distance event, on top of a general debacle otherwise in foot-racing competition.

SLIM CHANCES. Two factors contribute to the lack of any fresh grounds for optimism about what will happen in 1936 at Berlin. One is that our foremost two prospects in the hurdles, Percy Beard and Glenn Hardin, may not be available. The other factor, applicable particularly to the events calling for stamina, is that the Finns, Swedes, Poles, Japanese and Argentinians, among others, outclass our boys.

Beard, national high hurdling champion and word record-holder, passed up the indoor season and announced his retirement. If he doesn't reconsider the burden in the 110-meter hurdles will rest mainly upon fast but internationally inexperienced talent.

Al Moreau, Louisiana veteran and a sensation on European tracks last summer, is a good bet to make the team. The best prospects otherwise include Sam Allen, of Oklahoma Baptist; Forrest Towns, of Georgia; Leroy Kirkpatrick, of San Mateo (Cal.); Junior College; Phil Cope and Roy Staley, southern Californians. Towns and Kirkpatrick both have broken indoor records in the 110-meter hurdles. The former Bowdoin star, Phil Gould, also must be considered.

HARDIN AILING. Hardin, runner-up to Ireland's Bob Tisdall in the 400-meter hurdles four years ago, has been laid up with muscular leg trouble and probably can be counted out of the picture. Loss of the Louisiana State star who set the world record of 30.4 at Stockholm in 1934, will be a big blow to American chances. The best bets in the winter book include California's Tom Moor, the national champion, and Hamilton Hucker, Cornell sophomore, who holds the U. S. A. A. low hurdles title and can reel off a snappy 140.

Such improvement as our distance runners have shown since 1932 has not been calculated to raise Olympic hopes.

Based on performances up to date the best 5,000 meter prospect is Norman Bright, of San Francisco, who set a new American outdoor two-mile record last summer; Frank Nordell, former N. Y. T. runner who beat Bright at two miles last Saturday night in the excellent time of 9:12.3; and Ray Sears, of Butler, who has turned in a 9:07.4 but has erratic tendencies.

"George Didn't Do It"

Congressman Bloom Injects Cablegram and Historical Correction Into Dispute Over Whether Washington Tossed Silver Dollar Across Rappahannock.

By Dillon Graham.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Representative Sol Bloom injected a cablegram and a historical correction today into the dispute over whether George Washington tossed a silver dollar across the Rappahannock river.

Walter Johnson will try to duplicate the feat that Bloom calls a "myth" at Washington birthday exercises at Fredericksburg, Va.

The New York congressman, who offered to bet 20 to 1 that it couldn't be done, said he had stipulated conditions of Washington's day should govern the former baseball player's attempt.

He then produced a London cable saying that measurements on Virginia maps in the British public record office listed the river as more than 1,300 feet wide in Washington's day.

"Imagine Washington throwing anything nearly 500 yards," Bloom said. "According to scale measurements on the Warner map of 1737 the Rappahannock at Strother's place—now known as Ferry Farm—was 1,320 feet wide, and on the Jefferson and Brooke map of 1746 it was 1,427 feet."

Bloom said the maps were made by the British government and that "Now let's hear something from those who've been wanting to take my 20 to 1 bet it couldn't be done," he joked. "Those guys thought they had me, but I got in high gear. Nobody's caught me yet on facts and statistics."

Maybe Johnson or someone else can throw a dollar over the river today, but they couldn't do it over the river than ran by the farm in Washington's day.

"At that time my bet, Washington didn't do it and no one else can. The bet still is open for anyone who can throw 1,300 feet."

Bloom had another "trump" he said disproved the Washington story.

"They didn't have dollars then," he asserted. "We were a British colony, using British money. So how could anyone throw a dollar when there weren't any dollars?"

Bloom said the maps were made by the British government and that "Now let's hear something from those who've been wanting to take my 20 to 1 bet it couldn't be done," he joked. "Those guys thought they had me, but I got in high gear. Nobody's caught me yet on facts and statistics."

Maybe Johnson or someone else can throw a dollar over the river today, but they couldn't do it over the river than ran by the farm in Washington's day.

"At that time my bet, Washington didn't do it and no one else can. The bet still is open for anyone who can throw 1,300 feet."

Bloom had another "trump" he said disproved the Washington story.

"They didn't have dollars then," he asserted. "We were a British colony, using British money. So how could anyone throw a dollar when there weren't any dollars?"

He then produced a London cable saying that measurements on Virginia maps in the British public record office listed the river as more than 1,300 feet wide in Washington's day.

"Imagine Washington throwing anything nearly 500 yards," Bloom said. "According to scale measurements on the Warner map of 1737 the Rappahannock at Strother's place—now known as Ferry Farm—was 1,320 feet wide, and on the Jefferson and Brooke map of 1746 it was 1,427 feet."

S. E. C. Drawings Set for Sunday

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Drawings and scheduled basketball tournament, starting at the University of Tennessee February 28, will be made here Sunday.

Paul B. Parker, Tennessee athletic director and member of the tournament committee, said the other two committee members, H. J. Stoenman, of the University of Georgia, and Hank Crisp, of the University of Alabama, are scheduled to arrive in Knoxville Saturday night.

"Most of the teams play Saturday night and it will be impossible to get the results and complete the drawings and schedule them," Parker said. "We plan to release all of the information Sunday."

By Jack Troy.

The Georgia Tech basketball team took the figurative bit in its last night and walked the second-place Auburn Tigers, 46 to 22, before the largest crowd of the season in the final home game at the naval armory.

The Jackets played their greatest game of the season, dropped the Tigers from second to sixth place and themselves went into a tie with Tennessee for seventh place.

Although Alabama has won eight games and lost six, Tech and Tennessee have won six and lost four, and their percentage puts them ahead of the Crimson Tide.

Tennessee continued in a deadlock with Tech by defeating Sewanee.

NEAR TOURNAMENT BID.

The victory virtually clinched a tournament bid for Georgia Tech. It is the first time since 1927 that the Jackets have won a game in the standings. Tech plays Georgia in a return game Saturday night at Athens.

Georgia now has an even .500 percentage, having won six and lost six. And regardless of the outcome of Saturday's game, Tech will finish with better than .500 in the conference.

Tournament officials will pick the contending teams Sunday at Knoxville.

BOULEVARD STARS.

Burtz Boulevard was the leading player of a great Jacket team last night. Boulevard, who shot eight out of nine free throws against Florida, counted his sensational goal-getting against Auburn.

Boulevard took seven shots from the field. He made six of them good for 12 points. He missed only one shot all night. For he had three foul throws and he made every one of them.

Boulevard's sparkling 15 points gave him high scoring honors for the second straight game. And his guard work was on a par with his offensive play.

BALL HANDLING.

He handled the ball surely, passed accurately and broke fast for the basket. Tech took no wild shots. When the Jackets cracked down, you could safely put down points. They were playing like that last night.

The Jackets took no time in getting the lead. Auburn scored first when Joel Eaves, Atlanta boy and most valuable player on the Tiger team, found the range.

But Tech quickly scored 10 points. They kept on increasing the lead by virtue of the sharpshooting of Ed Jones, Bo Johnston and Hyder, until at the half, they led the invading Tigers, 26 to 10.

TECH'S GUARD WORK WAS FLAWLESS throughout. Johnston and Ed Jones divided second honors in scoring with 10 points.

ALL PLAY.

The regulars having handled the situation with such ease in the first half, Coach Munderoff ultimately used his entire squad. A new combination with the exception of Boulevard was on the floor shortly after the beginning of the second half. And this combination proved almost as effective as the starting five.

But you have to hand it to Joel Eaves, the Tiger star. Without him, Auburn would have been in a sad plight. He played a great game. Eaves went out on personal fouls shortly before the end. And he got a great hand from the crowd, which easily totaled 1,000.

The Jackets gave notice last night that they may enter the national tournament as a "dark horse" combination. They were in the proper frame of mind and had the guns to blast any conference team last night.

DOCTORS TO BE HELD IN STERILIZATION CASE

Probe Reveals Ann Hewitt's
Condition Did Not Warrant Operation.

By MOZELLE HORTON YOUNG.

San Francisco, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Municipal Judge Sylvain J. Lazarus announced today he would hold two physicians for superior court trial on mayhem charges for the sterilization of Ann Cooper Hewitt unless defense attorneys showed some good reason why he should not do so.

Attorneys for Drs. Tilton E. Tillman and Samuel G. Boyd, charged with performing the operation, immediately declared they would present arguments against such action.

Russell P. Tyler, counsel for Miss Hewitt, testified Dr. Boyd admitted he had performed the operation.

Judge Lazarus again commented on the intelligence of Miss Hewitt and emphasized his view that the only things involved at the hearing was whether a crime had been committed and whether it was done without the medical necessity.

The court asserted a private investigation concerning Miss Hewitt's alleged abnormal condition was not sufficient to justify such an operation according to California law.

LEIBOWITZ BELIEVES
HAUPTMANN GUILTY

nants of dinner still stood. He was puffing at an oddly colored pipe. Sitting beside him was Fisher, looking tired and downcast.

Leibowitz, who entered the case at the behest of Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, Washington society woman, because of her interest in clearing up mystery still surrounding the crime, began by asking those newspapermen who had reported the Fleming trial to raise their hands.

"I want to talk to you later," he told them, "because I want to have your opinion as to what I am about to do."

Then he began dictating the statement announcing his withdrawal and his reasons for doing it.

His opinion of Hauptmann's guilt or innocence, "made after a close study of the evidence in the case," the statement said, "has not been changed one bit by the three intensive and exhaustive conferences at the death house."

"I cannot see," he continued, "How I can serve the interests of justice any further by my continued participation in this case. I therefore want no further part of any of it."

Occasionally his newspapermen who had reported the Fleming trial to raise their hands.

"Is that all right with you, Lloyd?" When he had completed the statement, Leibowitz said he considered that "a fair statement of facts."

Fisher, half-smiling, turned to the New York lawyer and said: "Yes, that's a fair statement of facts as you see them."

Fisher then closed himself in the next room with Leibowitz and emerged later with his own statement.

It admitted "the outlook was dark" but added that he and his colleague, Frederick A. Pope, are hopeful that matters now under investigation will work out to the client's benefit.

In response to a direction question as to whether he intended to say that Hauptmann was guilty, Leibowitz said: "I'll stand on my statement."

"It was recalled that Leibowitz had publicly stated several times that he was convinced of Hauptmann's guilt, but was not sure of the evidence."

Leibowitz said he would not visit Hauptmann again. Earlier the convicted man had been taken to Mark O. Kimberling, of the state prison, a note explaining that he wanted to see the New York lawyer again and asked that he be admitted.

Hauptmann sent another note to Kimberling asking for an audience with Dr. John F. Condon, saying he believed he could prove to Jasie that "I am not a madman."

Kimberling said he had no way of reaching Condon and that he would so inform Hauptmann. Condon is vacationing in Panama.

Leibowitz's retirement came as a surprise. At the end of each of his visits to the death cell he had reported "progress."

His statement, which follows, indicates that he had failed in his effort to make the prisoner change his story.

"Lloyd Fisher today was more than cooperative. We brought home to Bruno Richard Hauptmann at the death house in unimpaired language the plight which confronts him. He said: 'I would have dropped the baby and run like hell in my automobile,' Hauptmann replied.

"But there would have been no accident if you went out the front door," asked Leibowitz.

"I guess that's right," Hauptmann said.

"What would you have done if you had got the baby away?"

"I would have taken him to a nearby farmhouse," Hauptmann replied.

The talk turned to the ransom money.

"How would you have collected the ransom, had you left the dead baby behind?" "Would you have taken the sleeping suit to prove you were the kidnaper so that you could collect the ransom?" Hauptmann replied.

"I guess that's what the kidnaper would have done."

Asked About Money.

"If you were Fisch, what would you have done with the ransom money?—what would you do if you knew that the police all over the world were looking for this money, and that if you were caught in this city or on the high seas or in Germany you would have been brought back and held for the Lindbergh murder?"

"I guess I would leave it in a safety deposit box. You know Fisch had one."

"You would not leave the money with a casual friend? Not even if you felt you might die in Germany?" "I guess I wouldn't do that. I guess people who are sick like Fisch are never very sure that they are going to die."

The spelling of the ransom notes was discussed, the source said, and Hauptmann was not asked specifically to change any part of his original story.

"He did, however, deal at length with spelling 'light' and before he finished Hauptmann was very confused and stammering," the source said.

Agnes Scott Students Choose May Queen and Her Maid of Honor

By Sally Forth.

THIS morning in the chapel at Agnes Scott there will be a dramatic moment when Eloise Alexander rises to announce the result of the May queen election. She will state that brunet and lovely Naomi Cooper, of Columbus, has been chosen by her fellow students to be crowned at the annual May festival. Virginia Turner, of Summerville, her blond and attractive maid of honor, will place the crown upon Naomi's dark tresses. The girls will make a stunning picture when they stand together for the coronation in May, surrounded by members of their court.

Naomi is well known in Atlanta, for she has visited Frances James during many vacation week-ends. On the campus, she is among the most outstanding and admired students and has taken part in many college activities.

The voting for this coveted honor of May queen was very close, a circumstance which speaks the popularity and influence of Naomi and Virginia, and shows that their college mates hold them in high esteem.

The pageant over which Naomi will preside is built around a beautiful gypsy girl and a handsome English army officer, and she seems to have been predestined by her dark beauty to preside over such a pantomime.

The May Day scenario and the pageant production is from the pen of two prominent members of the Agnes Scott student body, Charline Fleece and Anne Thompson. The setting will be that of an English country lane of the eighteenth century, where a romantic love scene takes place. The plot will be kept secret until May Day, when friends will assemble to witness the presentation which is always one of the most colorful and beautiful of the year.

EMMAKATE VRETMAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Vretman, leaves today to be among the popular belles attending the midwinter dances at the University of Virginia. The dances will begin this evening, when the initial grand opening of the celebration takes place, and will be followed by colorful formal dances on Friday and Saturday evenings.

When the dances at the university are concluded Emmakate will remain in Virginia to visit her aunt, Mrs. Winship Nunnally, at her winter home, Riverdale Farm. This is one of the largest and most beautiful plantations in the Old Dominion and covers about 1,000 acres. It is a two-story brick building, the lower portion of which is attractively adorned with colonial columns. The structure was built in 1750, and the acreage surrounding it is beautified by two rivers. Emmakate will probably have the time of her life on this historic estate, and will return to Atlanta in two or three weeks.

AMONG the attractive visitors arriving in the city for the week-end will be Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cannon III, who, since their marriage a few weeks ago, have been honeymooning at Miami Beach. Mrs. Cannon, you remember, is the former Bettie Morrill, whose Gretta Green marriage to Mr. Cannon created no end of excitement among members of the younger set shortly after Christmas.

The newlyweds will spend some time here as the guest of Bettie's mother, Mrs. Alva P. McCrary, at her home on Peachtree street, and their arrival will be the signal for much entertaining among their contemporaries. Following their visit here, they will go to North Carolina, where they will establish future residence.

The Cannons have been visiting J. W.'s mother, Mrs. William V. Andrews, at her home in Coconut Grove, and Sally hears that they are one of the most strikingly good looking couples in the fashionable winter colony. Her distinctive blond beauty is a perfect foil for his dark handsomeness. And what a whirl of social gaieties they have enjoyed, having been precipitated into the gay vortex as soon as they arrived at the brilliant playground! The couple has also visited Bettie's grandmother, Mrs. A. A. Morrill, of Boston, at her winter home at Orlando. They were joined in Miami by Bettie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alva McCrary, who have just returned from a motor trip to Florida.

Why Does the Weather Behave the Way It Does?

As Mark Twain said: "Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it." The truth is that nothing much can be done about it. But it's always interesting to know the facts about why the weather behaves as it does. The Constitution Service Bureau at Washington has ready for you its interesting ten-thousand-word booklet "Weather and Climate," connected with facts about the weather of the United States, with weather records of all kinds, and with weather forecasts and their real explanations.

DAILY SHORT STORY THE VANDAL

He Stood With Knife Poised Before the Lovely Painting He Meant to Destroy.

By GERALD ALLAN SOHL.

Jasper moved with caution. In a few moments the lights in Bertrand's house would be extinguished. Night after night of careful watching had assured him of that. He mentally rehearsed his plan. He would enter through the front door, proceed cautiously to the studio and work his destruction. "Morning's Melancholy"—Bertrand's entry in the all-class painting exhibit—would be no more.

There, the house was in darkness. He now moved with deliberate nonchalance and walked down the street opposite Bertrand's house. Suddenly he crossed over and walked up the steps leading to the door. He unlocked the door and entered. He looked at his watch. It was 10:15. He moved toward the painting. He was going to "dash it."

ALF LONDON FAVORED SUPREME COURT BARS BY REPUBLICAN WOMEN 'BURIAL ASSOCIATIONS'

Institute of Public Opinion Poll Shows Kansas Governor Ahead.

Governor Alf Landon, republican presidential aspirant, is not only first in Kansas but is first in the hearts of republican women voters throughout the United States, the Institute of Public Opinion reported to The Constitution today, in a preview of its current poll on G. O. P. candidates.

Among the candidates most often named by political commentators, women voters allotted their votes as follows:

Governor Landon 42 per cent
Senator Borah 23 per cent
Herbert Hoover 22 per cent
Frank Knox 6 per cent
Senator Vandenberg 1 per cent
Senator Dickinson 1 per cent

The results of the completed poll, showing the choices of all groups of republicans—men and women, eastern and western, farmers and city-dwellers, persons of means and persons on relief—will be published in The Constitution next Sunday.

Whether the relatively high vote cast by women for Governor Landon has been supported by an equally strong vote cast for him by men has not been revealed by the Institute of Public Opinion. In an earlier poll on G. O. P. candidates—reported December 1—Landon polled just 33 per cent of the combined vote of men and women.

The women's vote for Senator Borah today is slightly under the 26 per cent he polled in the earlier test.

The vote of women for Herbert Hoover, which constituted 25 per cent in the current poll, is substantially higher than the vote he received from all classes of voters in the December poll. At that time he had just 12 per cent of the whole vote.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

THRILL OF THE SWINDLE.

Many a captain of industry who has achieved his success with perfect honesty, secretly cherishes the belief that he would have been an excellent confidence man or swindler had he decided against the straight and narrow path when he arrived at the cross-roads of his life.

It is this trend of human psychology which gives the bluff bridge expert a real thrill. Having, at some time or other in his career, made all of the standard good plays by which hands can be made, regardless of what the opponents do, he reaches a point where the thrills of the game are largely centered in those hands on which he has neatly swindled the opponents out of a game or slam which he could not have made without their co-operation, however unwilling.

Including the Adversaries to Assist.

It is a well-known principle that competitors always will try to balk each other's moves. The expert bridge player, when confronted with a situation on which he has made a bluff, sometimes takes advantage of this principle as the only way to make his contract. As witness South's play of the following hand.

South, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ 10 3

The bidding:
SOUTH WEST NORTH EAST
1 NT Pass 2 NT Pass
3 NT (final bid)

West opened the seven of spades. East, who had not yet declared, unhesitatingly won the ace. The hold-up play would be useless unless West had at least a seven card suit and did not hold the ace of diamonds. And it would have the serious defect of a confession of spade weakness by declarer.

Eight tricks were in clear sight, but how to bring home the ninth trick without being smothered by an avalanche of spades offered a serious problem. To run off five clubs and then attempt to cash a diamond trick would be futile if the holder of the diamond ace were on his toes. He would jump up and return a spade. But if the ace holder could be hoaxed into holding off for just one diamond lead, success would quickly follow.

On this hope, declarer laid down the diamond king from his own hand. As it happened, East was put into a dilemma. He could not tell that his partner's spades already were established, or how many tricks in the suit he could win eventually. South might easily have had the ace-king and two small. His failure to hold off the first lead strongly suggested some such holding. West might well be holding a full suit of clubs and a diamond play might be an entry-establishment effort for the dummy's club suit. In that case, to win the diamond king with the ace would be laying right into declarer's hands. On this reasoning, he held up his ace. He should not be greatly censured for doing so. Against the holder, he feared, the play would be correct. But, in any event, the declared deserved great credit for a highly imaginative trap, certainly the best chance for his contract.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: The bidding was: one spade by dealer, double by partner, four spades by third hand. What should I bid, vulnerable, on spade Q 10 heart 7 5, diamond Q 8 4 2 and club Q 5 3?

Answer: You should make a penalty double. You hold one sure trick and two queens that may either win a full pot of better remedy than the king or jack.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

Train Is Derailed.

WOOSTER, Ohio, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Seven Pullman cars of the west-bound Pennsylvania passenger train No. 99 jumped the track at Weaversville, six miles east of here early today and remained upright. None of the 30 passengers was injured. Cause of derailment was not immediately ascertained.

To End Annoying Cough, Mix This Recipe, at Home

Big Saving! No Cooking! So Easy!

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up winter coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare, and costs very little, but it positively has no equal for quick, lasting relief.

From any drugstore, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar. Stir in a cup of sugar and a cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's so easy! Thus you have a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils and tastes fine.

U. S. AND FRANCE SEEK NEW NAVAL ACCORD

Opposing Stands on Size of Future Battleships Delay London Parleys.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—A Franco-American deadlock over the size of future battleships today suspended London naval conference deliberation on the question while the two nations resorted to extraordinary diplomatic conversations on the side.

Despite swift trans-Atlantic maneuvering, however, the demand by France that capital ships be limited to 27,500 tons and 16-inch guns apparently uncompromising American refusal to budge much if any below present 35,000-ton limits. Late reports from London indicated the French might abandon their demand.

In the hurried effort to reconcile differences, the French ambassador to Washington, Andre De Laboulaye, acting on instructions from his government, appealed directly to the State Department for a reduction in the American stand for adherence to the Washington treaty limits.

Tallahula trustees Confer Distinction Upon Mrs. Granger, Mrs. Johnson

The distinction of trustee emeritus was conferred upon Mrs. A. O. Granger, of Atlanta and Cartersville, and Mrs. J. L. Johnson, of Rome, at the annual meeting of the trustees of Tallulah Falls school, held at the Henry Grady hotel. The ranking past presidents of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, these two distinguished Georgia women, both of whom have given a lifetime of service to their state, were among the founders of Tallulah Falls school and their loyal devotion throughout the years renders appropriate the signal honor conferred upon them last night by their fellow trustees.

Wednesday's meeting elected as active trustees Mrs. J. M. Johnston, H. Comer, and Mrs. H. W. Beers and Mrs. W. D. Ellis Jr., of Atlanta. Mrs. Johnston is past president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs and is now serving as state director in the General Federation of Women's Clubs. She is a member of the Georgia Library Commission and a leader in every activity of her local devotion. Mrs. Beers is past president of the Atlanta Young Matrons' Circle and during the 18-month period of the school's recent silver jubilee celebration women raised $25,000 for Tallulah as a twenty-fifth anniversary gift. The election of Mrs. W. D. Ellis Jr., will be especially pleasing to all Georgia clubwomen as she is the only daughter of the late Mrs. M. A. Lipscomb, founder of Tallulah Falls school.

Mrs. Lawrence Willet and Mrs. Charles Winship, Tallulah Falls, are trustees of Tallulah Young Matrons' Circle and by their own personal service and by inheritance are linked by many bonds of association to Tallulah Falls school. The nominating committee included Mesdames Blount, Lee, C. J. Haden and Z. I. Fitzpatrick.

Mrs. John K. Otley, president of the board, was in the chair and was assisted by Mrs. Price Gilbert, secretary, and Mrs. Fitzpatrick, vice president. Presidents of the ten districts, who are by virtue of office trustees of Tallulah Falls school, were present. Resolution of sorrow was passed upon the death of Mrs. Walter D. Lamar, vice president of Tallulah Falls school trustees. A woman of great distinction and rare character of mind and person, Mrs. Blount was herself a warm friend of the school. The loss to the board of trustees of one of its most loved and valued members was announced with heavy and appropriate tribute to Mrs. Rutherford Lipscomb, who passed away at her home in Atlanta, on November 8, 1935.

Lipscomb Scholarship. The establishment of the Margaret Talmadge Lipscomb perpetual scholarship was announced as a living memorial to one who genuinely loved and was loved by many. The scholarship, which is named in honor of the late Mrs. Peter Boyd, Miss Elizabeth Boyd has given an annual scholarship this year. The trustee board, composed of Tallulah for a visit on their return from Florida last spring and the school awaits with pleasure their return. The trustees guaranteed the perpetual continuance of the scholarship. The scholarship was given by Mrs. Elizabeth Thiel Winship, in memory of her mother.

New annual scholarship gifts reported were as follows: From the Atlanta Federation of Women's Club, $150 as a tribute to its president, Mrs. George Ripley Jr.; from the Atlanta Young Matrons' Circle, $150 given through the Atlanta Woman's Club by Mrs. Willard Leach; from Mrs. Granger Hanel, $150, the W. Stansell Brodnax scholarship, in memory of her mother, the late Mrs. S. E. Brodnax; John A. Sibley, $150 for the Nettie Cone Sibley scholarship; from a member of the Young Matrons' Circle, $150 for one of the children already in school where scholarships are so greatly needed this year. J. Prince Webster, $150, a scholarship given as a birthday tribute to his friend, Mrs. Otley, Mrs. S. E. Brodnax, John K. Otley Jr., $150, Valentine gift honoring Mrs. Otley, Sr.

Warm appreciation was expressed for these gifts which are a great assistance in the present crisis where many children are at Tallulah with no scholarship provision.

Mrs. Irving Schweppe, president of the Young Matrons' Circle, presented through her representative, Miss Foster, a gift of $1,500, which brings the sum of earnings and dues from this group to the amount of $3,000 for the year beginning July 1.

Mrs. Schweppe presented members of her circle and stated that two splendid gifts had recently come to the school in 100 gallons of stain from a Teleware Company, and a collection from a well-known firm through Mrs. H. M. Nicholas, from Dr. H. Harvey Payne (to whom the school owes its completed dental work of the year) has come a gift of 120 tooth brushes from a firm in Joplin, Mo.

Officers of Georgia Federation and trustees board including district presidents and other visitors were present and spoke. Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, who is greatly loved as the president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, was the recipient of a specimen basket from the crafts department of the Tallulah Falls school.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

THE WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is amusing how well meaning people can differ on what, to the uninitiated, seem to be matters of fact.

A short time ago I told of a conversation with two fishermen who came to see me, and since that time I have had a flood of letters. I was not trying to set myself up as an authority on fishing. I have listened to too many fishermen argue on the coast of New England not to know that agreement is as difficult to come to in this occupation as it is in many others. Apparently, both the methods of fish-trapping and seining should be allowed, and a balance should be kept between the two. There seems to be some official opinion to back up the idea that in this way, the greatest amount of employment will be made possible for the people involved.

I glean this from my letters, but I'm not sure that the seine fishermen will agree. In addition, I am told, we should all know that pink salmon has as much food value as red salmon, but on the whole the letters agree that red salmon is rarer.

Now to hastily chronicle an uneventful day. It opened with sleet and wind in New York city. First I sallied forth to inquire after a friend who is ill, then I spent a half an hour with my mother-in-law in her pleasant sitting room.

Another short, hazardous taxi trip, for by this time the streets were getting slippery, to see my godmother and cousin, Mrs. Henry Parrish. A half hour with her, and then a dash for the Pennsylvania station, where my secretary and I met and took the 12:30 train to Washington.

A dinner party at 7 o'clock; Mr. and Mrs. Will Hays staying with us, and the army and navy reception tonight. Next, the diplomatic reception. It is the most colorful and the gayest of them all, and closes the official state functions for the season.

This does not mean that there are not certain social demands still made upon us, but the formal state parties are over till next December. (Copyright, 1936, for The Constitution.)

A Dainty School Frock For A JUNIOR.

This is an excellent fashion for younger girls—becoming and very simple. It's amazingly inexpensive to make and yet it has that indefinable distinction that gives little Miss de mands in her clothes.

The wide sailor collar is flattering to her face, youthful and chic. Monotony of a straight narrow skirt is broken by two wide panels in front and back, the seams of which terminate into kick pleats. An ideal dress for games and exercise. Short sleeves are effective and the weather is just what you need. A dark blue is the classic color for such a design, but it would also be charming in one of the gay new plaids or checks.

Designed for sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. Size 8 requires 2 3/4 yards of 35-inch material for either long or short sleeves.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Do not send stamps.

HIT-RUN CAR, ROBBER VICTIM HERE

Hard luck hit the Huskey family full force last night.

John Huskey, 40, of 277 Washington street, S. W., suffered a possible fractured skull shortly after 7 o'clock when he was struck by a hit-run motor car at West Hunter and Washington streets. He was admitted to Grady hospital.

At about 10 o'clock, after his wife had visited him at the hospital, two negroes grabbed her purse containing $28 as she was walking on Gilmer street, near Butler. The negroes escaped.

Huskey was reported as being in "fair" condition.

EX-MEXICAN ENVOY TO U. S. SUCCUMBS

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Fernando Gonzalez Roa, former Mexican ambassador to Washington, died tonight of a heart illness at the age of 52.

He served as ambassador to Guatemala, and was named secretary of foreign relations by President Lazaro Cardenas in June, 1935, but declined the post because of illness.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I am 16, in love and having trouble with the boy friend. He insists that I be a one-man-woman, date only him and never go out with anybody else. Mother and I have both decided that I am not old enough to go with one boy alone. Yet every time I make a date my boy friend gets mad, it is very fierce and crazy, so I settle down but I won't have anybody when we break up. Do you agree with mother and me?

Answer: Every sensible adult will agree with you and your mother that it is folly to become involved in a "closed shop" policy with one boy. Nine times out of 10 she comes out the loser.

This tendency of the modern boy friend to fence off his best girl must have some connection with the loss of male prestige in the present day. The boys are frightened. For the first time in history the girls are as well as the boys, and the girls are not. The girls care as much, if not more, than they. And find it easier to get another job if they lose the first one. So the poor surprised youths who would not want to believe themselves a superior race (that is superior to the females) are floundering about to find ways and means of protecting their prestige. They make dire threats to the girls about what they will and will not do unless they are given exclusive right of way.

When boy or man has money in his pocket to buy the marriage license and support the wife, or when between them they are able to make marriage arrangements agreeable to both parties, then and no sooner, has he or she the right to ask a girl for monopoly of her time and interest. And it is perfectly useless for him to ask it unless he can first recommend himself to the girl by his own merits.

True she doesn't use her head in the matter. She frequently gives her mother and her friends an idea of marrying her. But she gives it anyhow for this is a matter she settles with her heart. She always believes she can win the man she loves. It takes a long time for it to percolate through her brain that many "no come to play do not remain to propose. If she gets hold of one of these "dolls," she finds herself high and dry a few years hence, the salad days passed, the other prospects faded out and matrimony reduced to minimum.

Boy or man that tries to fence off the girl friend before he is in position to name the day, buy the ring, hire the parson, priest or justice of the peace is either contemptibly selfish or a scared-cat, scared that he can't hold his own with other contenders. In either case he isn't recommending himself to the girl friend and she is stupid if she permits herself to be fenced off until she has something to recommend herself by.

She shouldn't be flattered by the proposition, nor fooled into believing that it carries any proof of his affection. Nor should she be frightened by the furries that her refusal arouses.

Girls, don't be frightened when the boy gets mad. He is not mad at their mad spells. No boy ever fades out of the picture because another boy enters it. He fights all the harder for first place. You have only to end his bluff and the lion becomes a lamb.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Camp Fire Girls Sell 9,922 Dozen Doughnuts During Recent Drive

Camp Fire Girls braved the worst winter in Atlanta and sold 9,922 dozen doughnuts in two weeks. Elsie Smith, president of her group at Russell High school, sold 360 dozen doughnuts to win first prize and two weeks at the organization camp of Camp Toccoa. Katherine Brown, another member of the Russell High group, came second with a sale of 314 dozen and won one week free at Camp Toccoa. Third place was awarded Nancy McFarly from the Weyanah group of R. L. Hope school who sold 280 dozen. Amy Lou Bishop from the group sponsored by Highland Highland School P-T. A., sold 175 dozen and won fourth place.

Hilweto group sponsored by Highland School P-T. A. with their guardian, Mrs. E. L. Bishop, won first group prize which consisted of a big party with refreshments. These girls averaged 57 dozen doughnuts each. Nailaw group, sponsored by Russell High P-T. A., with their guardian, Miss Katharine Taylor, won a large Camp Fire banner for second place averaging 52 dozen sale for each girl. This is a large group which sold in total 1,403 dozen.

Oitokwa group from Samuel Inman school, with their guardian, Mrs. Frank McVay, won the birchbark credo for third place. Honorable mention was given the Handehi group, sponsored by O'Keefe Junior High P-T. A. and Mrs. N. D. Cann, guardian, who averaged 42 dozen and the Weyanah group, sponsored by R. L. Hope P-T. A., with Mrs. T. X. Cheres, guardian, with the same average.

Girls selling 50 dozen or more will become members of the Mystic Order of the Do-Nut. The list of girls earning this is incomplete but judging by the sales the group to be entertained with a fine week-end party and initiation into the order will be a large one. This party will be an out-of-door one at camp as soon as weather will permit.

Many girls achieved the 25-dozen mark and won a special leather hood. All girls with 100 per cent of their groups selling at least five dozen won a special award.

Outstanding in the recent drive was the splendid spirit of co-operation of all girls, leaders and council. With every handicap of weather the effort to do something for their organization and camp was paramount.
